"A sweet mess" the cop stuck with the situation was heard to mutter.

Number of School-Agers in U. S. Drops

WASHINGTON—(UP)—The number of school-age children in the United States dropped between 1940 and 1947, but will rise again when the postwar baby crop comes of school age, the Census Bureau reports.

The school-age population, figured from 15 to 17 years of age, dropped 1.4 percent from 1940 to July 1, 1947, the Bureau said. The number last July was 29,317,000.

The drop, the Bureau explained, was due to a decline in the birth rate in the years 1935-1942. The birth rate has gone up, however, since the war.

H. L. Mencken Suffers Small Stroke

BALTIMORE—(AP)—H. L. Mencken, author, newspaperman and critic, has suffered a "small stroke," and is a patient in Johns Hopkins Hospital.

A hospital announcement late last night said the condition of the 68-year-old "sage of Baltimore" was serious "only insofar as the underlying process has serious connotations."

It said he was admitted to the hospital Nov. 23, "having suffered a small stroke."

"His outlook has improved in the last few days and his condition is as satisfactory as can be expected," the announcement said. Mencken's most recent professional activity was the covering of the 1948 election campaigns for the Baltimore Sun papers.

FAMILY DOCTOR OF THE YEAR

Medical Award Goes To Emory Alumnus

By SHIRLEY ZIEGLER

An Emory alumnus and former professional baseball player was named the family doctor of the year by the American Medical Association yesterday.

Dr. William L. "Buck" Pressly, who received his M. D. from Emory University Medical College in 1912, will receive the Association's gold medal, known as the general practitioner award, at a special meeting in St. Louis tomorrow night, on his sixty-first birthday.

The six-foot, blue-eyed doctor has been practicing medicine in Due West, S. C., the town of his birth, for the past 34 years. In that time he has delivered in and around Due West 4,200 babies, including 16 sets of twins.

Joel Chandler Harris Commemoration To Honor Creator of Uncle Remus

By ALBERT RILEY

Atlantans and Georgians everywhere will join with the folks of his home County of Putnam, Thursday, Dec. 9, in celebrating the 100th anniversary of the birth of Joel Chandler Harris, the beloved Constitution writer who gave to the world the immortal songs and sayings of Uncle Remus.

On that date the U. S. Post Office Department will pay tribute to the famous author by placing on sale at Extonton the first issue of the Joel Chandler Harris commemorative postage stamp.

Three days before the celebration, the story of Harris and Uncle Remus will be featured in a special WCON program, between 9 p. m. and 9:30 p. m., Monday, Dec. 6, entitled "The Story in Stone."

This program will be a dramatization of The Constitution's history as described in stone by Sculptor Julian Harris in the magnificent relief recently completed across the facade of The Constitution's new building on Forsyth Street.

On Plaza

Construction

Saving large amounts of money is an almost unheard-of achievement in these days of inflation, but the City-County Bond Commission yesterday learned of two sizable savings that have been effected in Atlanta's huge long-range traffic improvement program.

Informing that the proposed plaza over the downtown railroad gulch between Pryor Street and Central Avenue will cost $77,000 less than the bond funds allocated to it, the Commission authorized $25,000 of the savings to be spent in eliminating the jog at Hill Street and the Bell Street underpass, where Hunter Street joins Memorial Drive.

Present estimates are that the Plaza project, for which $477,000 had been allocated, will cost only $400,000.

The Commission also was told by Mayor Hartsfield that the City, by moving slowly in acquiring property for the downtown Broad Street extension project, has saved the bond fund "several hundred thousand dollars" in payment of "consequential damages" to businesses located in the path of the extension.

Mayor Hartsfield explained the slow procedure has given business firms affected ample time to relocate. Thus only actual property costs and no "consequential damages" will have to be paid for the property. The Mayor added all but one piece of property has been acquired for the project, and that acquired buildings have been released by the City, with all leases to expire at one time when work is expected to begin on the extension about June 1, 1949. Bond funds totalling $800,000 were originally allocated for the job.

The Commission approved allocation of $612,000 from the bond fund to the State to pay for the County's proportionate share in the project, let for the extension from the North-South Expressway to Sixteenth Street leg of the North-South Expressway.

Secretary-Engineer Mose Cox reported on progress of the various phases of the expressway program and declared "we have reached such a stage with plans that the bottleneck is now going to be the obtaining of right-of-way."

Cox reported:

1. Houses being removed from the right-of-way of the Merritts Avenue to Sixteenth Street leg, and the work on the expressway contract expected to begin in the near future.

2. Plans practically complete on the Sixteenth Street to Brookwood Station leg of the North-South Expressway.

3. Contract for section of West By-Pass from North Avenue to Peters Street to be let early in February, with all but 90 pieces of 178 pieces of property obtained for right-of-way.

4. Contract let by the city for design of Glenn Street underpass widening of Glenn Street to Stewart Avenue.

5. Design of North Avenue underpass by Southern Railroad completed.

HEATED RACE

Record Vote Seen Today In Decatur

A record vote of Decatur citizens is expected today in one of the most heated political campaigns in the city's history, the City Commission's race which has pitted five aspirants against three incumbents.

More than 5,500 registered voters are expected to cast votes between 7 a. m. and 7 p. m. at these precincts: Oakhurst, Radio Den, 103 East Lake Dr., City Hall and Poplar Springs Precincts.

Candidates seeking re-election are Mayor S. L. Threadgill, Arthur D. Kirkman and Nelson Maynard. C. A. Murphy, Walter Streeter, George Spurlin, George Manley and Vernon Frank are the other candidates.

Coupled with the close of the campaign were statements by the three incumbents that a suit against the city by J. O. Bowen, concerning a paving contract had "political ramifications."

In a statement issued jointly, Threadgill, Maynard and A. B. Kirkland charged Spurlin and Murphy had joined with special interest in an "effort to smear the incumbents in a suit brought by Bowen in regard to the Howard St. paving."

This suit was filed on Friday and on Saturday or Sunday thousands of circulars put out by Mr. Murphy were in the mails telling of the suit. It is obvious, the statement said, "these circulars could not have been printed, addressed and mailed after the suit was filed on Friday."

Bowen last night denied that the suit was a political move. Murphy and Spurlin denied conspiring with Bowen to issue the injunction.

"This injunction was filed the day I found out about the difference in the contract as signed by Bowen in regard to the Howard St. paving."

SHE DIDN'T WANT SYMPATHY

'And Bills--Bills,' With Christmas Near

By CELESTINE SIBLEY

The young woman hastily removed her cheap cotton gloves to hide the mended places and tugged at her too-short coat in a futile effort to cover the run in her stocking.

She was about to do what nobody in her family had ever done before—and suddenly it was so utterly imperative that she LOOK decent and self-respecting. She would not, she simply would not have them feeling sorry for her!

And then, abruptly, she put her head down on her desk and burst into tears.

Except for the sound of her weeping, it was quiet in the little room. Nobody said anything or went near her. After a while she raised her head and blew her nose.

"I HATE Christmas!" she said. The brown-eyed woman across the desk from her nodded understandingly but said nothing.

"Chr-r-r-i-s-t-m-a-s," the young woman's voice broke and she swallowed hard and tried again. "Well, it's always been bigger than anything else. We've always had our problems. There hasn't been enough of anything except trouble in our family for years and years. But at Christmas we could always forget the rest of the year and have a happy time."

"But this year Christmas is so little, compared to the rest! I'd cheerfully starve two months so the kids could have a few toys. I don't even mind asking charity at Christmas time for children. Everybody loves to make children happy at Christmas. But a man with heart trouble, a baby that can't learn to walk properly, a leaking roof and a vanishing coal pile . . . and bills . . . bills! Who cares about that?"

Emergency Hike Said Inadequate

By DuPont WRIGHT

The Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Company yesterday went into Fulton Superior Court and asked for a further increase in telephone rates in Georgia.

C. J. Yates, Georgia Manager, said no schedule of increased rates had been worked out as yet.

Fulton Superior Court ordered the Georgia Public Service Commission last August to put into effect an emergency rate schedule demanded by the Company "to prevent daily confiscation of its property" through insufficient rates to establish a new schedule of charges.

The emergency schedule affecting Georgia service, including a 25-cent-per-month increase on Atlanta phones, has proved insufficient, according to the motion filed yesterday by Atty. James A. Branch and the firm of Smith, Kilpatrick, Cody, Rogers and McClatchey.

The emergency schedule, according to the petition, in effect during the year ending last Sept. 30, would have yielded only 4.3 percent on the Company's Georgia intrastate net average investment.

Originally the Company asked for an increase permitting a yield of 6.6 percent.

The suit alleges that existing intrastate rates are wholly insufficient to enable the plaintiff to pay its legitimate Georgia intrastate operating expenses, to pay Georgia's portion of the interest on the Company's bonds and permit Eugene Wilburn to the State Parole Board. The Governor also will appoint some new members of the State Board of Education.

George Whitman, Jr., of Atlanta, is seen as the likely successor of Mrs. Henry Troutman, of Atlanta, on the School Board. Clay Milner, of Rome, may succeed Roy McGinty, Sr., of Calhoun. The terms of E. M. Verpen, of Moultrie, and W. T. Anderson, of Leslie, also are expiring.

After swearing in new leaders, Gov. Talmadge today also will find out whether the State's surplus-funds operations will finance the purchase of an $800,000 Quartermaster Depot at Savannah and finance repair of flood damages to highways. Governor Talmadge wants the War Assets Administration to provide more than $17,000,000 for all purposes. City Comptroller B. Graham West said.

A year ago, the Budget Commission certified a total of $14,218,943 for appropriation in 1948, but the figure was raised to $14,519,610 during the current year. Collections thus far this year have exceeded allocations by more than $500,000.

Last year a $1,800,000 cash carry-over was brought forward into 1948. This was the record up to that time.

Mayor Hartsfield, West and Councilman Ralph Huie, Chairman of Council's Finance Committee, yesterday certified the tentative figures to the 1949 budget Commission and Council.

Chiang Maps Evacuation Of Nanking Government

NANKING, China—(UP)—

President Chiang Kai-shek has ordered all Government branches except the military to draw up plans for the evacuation of Communist-threatened Nanking, the Chinese capital, usually well-informed sources said yesterday.

Informants said part of the Government would move to Canton, 750 air miles south, and part to Chungking, the war-time capital, 750 miles west. The main departments, including the president's trial office, were reported slated for Canton.

At the same time, United States Government officials ordered 110 American Embassy and Consulate officials.

dependents to evacuate Nanking and Shanghai by Thursday.

The orders were issued as bands of Chinese Communists probed the Yangtze River, 50 miles east of Nanking, and powerful Red armies drove steadily down the Szechwan-Nanking Railway against weakening Nationalist resistance to within 100 miles of the capital.

An official of the legislative Yuan (Parliament) said a special committee met yesterday to discuss evacuating legislators. Details of the meeting were not disclosed.

But it was understood the legislative Yuan, the Cabinet and Chiang's office would be ordered to Canton within 20 days. Such advisory groups as the examination, control and judicial Yuans will go to Chungking, the western terminus of the Yangtze, for the second time in 10 years, informants said.

They said Chiang himself and his military staff will remain in Nanking with a skeleton government "as long as it is feasible."

Officials of the joint U. S. Military Advisory Group indicated they were considering withdrawing their personnel.

CASH CARRY-OVER TWO MILLION PLUS

City Budget to Exceed $17,000,000; Largest in Municipality's History

Atlanta's 1949 city budget will be the largest in history, exceeding $17,000,000, and the 1948 cash carry-over into the new year will be more than $2,000,000, an all-time record.

These facts were indicated yesterday when the Budget Commission certified $15,077,608 as the available amount for appropriation for 1949. The figure is exclusive of debt service and other fixed expenditures. The total 1949 budget will provide more than $17,000,000 for all purposes. City Comptroller B. Graham West said.

A year ago, the Budget Commission certified a total of $14,218,943 for appropriation in 1948, but the figure was raised to $14,519,610 during the current year. Collections thus far this year have exceeded allocations by more than $500,000.

Last year a $1,800,000 cash carry-over was brought forward into 1948. This was the record up to that time.

Mayor Hartsfield, West and Councilman Ralph Huie, Chairman of Council's Finance Committee, yesterday certified the tentative figures to the 1949 budget Commission and Council.

Under the law, the outgoing Budget Commission must certify its figures to the incoming group, which then makes up its own estimate.

The session yesterday was to conform with the law and to set the fiscal policies of the municipality for the new year. After the new Council is organized the first Monday in January, 1949, the new Budget Commission will certify its estimate and the new Finance Committee will make the allocation.

Although the cash carry-over will be the largest in history, with some city leaders claiming it will be upwards of $2,500,000, administration stalwarts warn that it must finance the city's pay rolls and supply accounts until 1949 taxes begin to flow into municipal coffers. They insist that it will be absorbed by the time 1949 tax payments become due.

Navy Rebukes Four Officers In Capsize Deaths of 30 Men

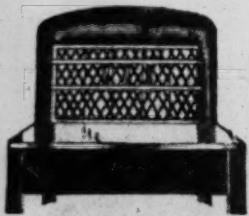

NORFOLK, Va.—(UP)—The Navy said yesterday it had slapped severe reprimands on the records of four senior officers in the drowning of 30 men when a launch was swamped in stormy Hampton Roads May 31.

Official letters of admonition, were addressed to Capt. Curtis S. Smiley, Commanding Officer of the Aircraft Carrier Kearsarge, and three other officers of the carrier.

Cmdr. Justin A. Miller, Executive Officer; Cmdr. George R. Luker, Operations Officer; and Cmdr. Harold B. Van Gorder, Gunnery Officer.

The court of inquiry found that the senior officers failed to make sure junior officers and men knew boat safety regulations and boat crew training, and failed to detail boat officers for safe operation on the night of the swamping.

WORLD TODAY

The Communist move in Berlin had been indicated when the Communists issued a call Monday for a rally of all "democratic" leaders to unify Berlin.

This meeting, boycotted by the anti-Communists, was held yesterday in the Soviet sector. Within an hour and a half the convention had "elected" an entire city government.

The American military commander, Gen. Lucius D. Clay, promptly denounced the hand-picked regime as a "rump" government. Col. Frank Howley, military commander of the United States sector of Berlin, said next Sunday's municipal elections in the three western sectors would go ahead as planned.

Friedrich Ebert, chosen by the Communists as "mayor," declared the coming elections "null and void" and demanded the elected anti-Communist government in Berlin dissolve itself.

There was no doubt the Communist move had split Berlin wide open, but in Paris the six "neutral" members of the Security Council continued their efforts to solve the problem.

A responsible Western source said the United States, Britain and France had warned they may take separate action in Berlin if Russia continues trying to split the city.

The three powers were reported to have acted together in a short note handed to Dr. Juan Bramuglia, Argentine Foreign Minister and outgoing United Nations Security Council President.

The note was given to Bramuglia when he called on the Western leaders about terms of a projected study by neutral nations of the East-West currency fight in Berlin, the diplomatic informant said.

Prospects for United Nations approval of a new Palestine peace formula appeared brighter as a result of the British-American agreement. Both the U. S. and Britain

Defense Pact Effective Friday

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The pact signed at Rio de Janeiro creating a Western Hemisphere defense alliance will go into effect at noon Friday, officials revealed yesterday.

It commits the United States and 13 other American nations to help defend against aggression a "security zone" covering the Western Hemisphere from pole to pole. All that is needed to make it effective is for Costa Rica to deposit its ratification with the Pan American Union here.

Officials disclosed that arrangements have been made for Costa Rica to do this at a special ceremony Friday. That will bring the number of ratifications up to the necessary two-thirds. Nineteen American states signed the pact originally.

The pact was signed at Rio de Janeiro on Sept. 2, 1947. The U. S. Senate ratified it by unanimous vote last September.

Toombs Slaying Arrests Await Warrant Request

An expected "break" in the slaying of a Toombs County Negro failed to develop late yesterday, although Sheriff F. E. Gray reported he was ready to make arrests if warrants were obtained.

Georgia Public Safety Director George Wilson said as far as he knew there were "no new developments" in the case of Robert Mallard, shot down from ambush 20 miles from Lyons, Ga., a week ago.

A source in the Georgia Bureau of Investigation had predicted earlier that a "break" would come today. The source said the break would be the arrest of two or more white farmers.

Investigators in the field could not be reached directly. Mallard's widow, Amy James Mallard, arrested on murder charges Saturday and released nine hours later, still was in hiding in Savannah in the custody of an attorney, Aaron Kravitch.

Sheriff Gray said charges against the widow would be dropped. The woman, a school teacher, and mother of a two-year-old child, has contended her husband was killed by a band of robed white men. She said their car was stopped on a narrow country road and one shot fired from ambush.

The other Negroes in the car have told the same story. Capt. Delmar Jones of the GBI said earlier yesterday "we will take some action this afternoon." His promise came after he was informed through the Associated Press that Mallard's widow would appear in Lyons to identify those she said she recognized at the scene of the shooting. Jones could

HONEYMOON IN FLA.

Childhood Sweetheart, Heiress Wed

BENNETTSVILLE, S. C. — (UP) — The Florida honeymooning contingent yesterday included the former Anne Reynolds, heiress in the merging of two vast fortunes, and Lloyd Patrick Tate, well-known Southern horseman.

They were married here Monday by Probate Judge John F. Kinney. He performed the ceremony immediately after expiration of the 24-hour waiting period. The same judge had granted the license.

Mrs. Tate is the daughter of the late cigar scion Smith Reynolds and Anne Cannon Reynolds, of the town of Cannon.

They reportedly went to Pass-a-Grille, Fla., near St. Petersburg, for their honeymoon.

Tate, a childhood sweetheart of his bride and well-known figure in Southern horse show circles, gave his address as Pipehurst, N. C. The bride gave hers as Blowing Rock, N. C.

The bride inherited $9,000,000 when her father, Smith Reynolds, was killed by a bullet at a party in Winston-Salem, N. C., in 1932. The shooting had remained a mystery.

Japs May Have Week's Death Stay

TOKYO — (AP) — Hideki Tojo and six other Japanese warlords got possibly a week's stay yesterday in their scheduled walk to the gallows.

The U. S. Army said all seven were included in Gen. MacArthur's statement that executions will "certainly not" be carried out while the appeals of two are before the U. S. Supreme Court.

The Supreme Court is not scheduled to meet until next Monday, which would indicate the seven have at least until next Tuesday to live even should the Court decline to act.

It was conceded in legal circles, however, that any individual justice could take some action on the appeals beforehand. One justice at least could decide the court had no jurisdiction.

The general opinion here is the Supreme Court will decline to review the case. That was the Court's answer to the appeals of convicted German war leaders.

Army Halves Draft Call In January

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Army slashed its 20,000-man January draft call in half yesterday and warned that the proposed budget for next year wasn't big enough to build the 900,000-man Army authorized by Congress.

The Armed Forces asked for $23,000,000,000 for the fiscal year beginning July 1. President Truman set a $15,000,000,000 ceiling on defense spending.

Of this total, $600,000,000 must be spent on stock-piling strategic materials. The balance of $14,400,000,000 will be split among the Armed Forces. The Army is expected to get around $5,000,000,000.

It was learned yesterday the Army figures it would have to limit its strength to 677,000 officers and men if it stayed within the $5,000,000,000 budget. This is 223,000 (24.8 percent) less than the 900,000 authorized by Congress last Summer.

The Army had launched its draft program in November with a call for 10,000 men. The December call was for 15,000, and the original January call was for 20,000. Later, it was planned to make the monthly calls around 30,000.

But the Army yesterday cut the January call to 10,000 and the February call to 5,000. It explained the reduced budget made both cuts necessary.

GRATITUDE—Cab driver Wilbert Zdoe brought his wife breakfast in bed for three months, but she still left him, he claimed in a divorce petition yesterday in Cleveland, Ohio. . . . Police Capt. John Heinlein, of Warren, Ohio, was investigating a burglary in a neighbor's house when he spotted someone inside his own house across the street. With two patrolmen, Heinlein dashed over, but the thief escaped with a fishing tackle box full of war bonds and other papers. The box was found nearby where the burglar dropped it in his haste. . . . Christmas came early to five ex-GI's in Pennsylvania's Versailles Township yesterday. The quintet received checks totaling $2,424—refunds from a building contractor tabbed for overcharging on houses he sold them.

SLIGHT CHANGE—It was a boy this time, but otherwise there was nothing new to Mrs. Harold Lewis, of Toledo, Ohio, giving birth while riding in an automobile. A seven-pound son was born Sunday while Mrs. Lewis was being rushed to a hospital. The same thing happened to Mrs. Lewis in the same car Jan. 6, 1947. That time it was a girl. . . . Yesterday's escape resulted in a black mark on the Christmas Chart for David, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher George, of Toledo, Ohio. Calling his bluff, mother packed a bag for him to run away, but kept tab on him through neighbors. Father later "rescued" little David, but now he needs more gold stars on his conduct chart before Dec. 25.

NO STOGIES—In London Winston Churchill yesterday spent his seventy-fourth birthday as usual—at work. A family dinner last night was Churchill's only special recognition of the anniversary. His secretary, interviewed by telephone, said Churchill, whose big black cigars are virtually a trademark, had received "telegrams and letters from everywhere and plenty of presents, but not a single cigar. I don't know why." . . . King George, VI, was examined by Physicians Sir John Weir and Professor J. R. Learmonth, who advised the ailing monarch to spend most of his time in bed. . . . Milan newspapers printed yesterday "reports from abroad" that Margaret Truman had been invited to sing at La Scala, famed Italian opera house.

SOUNDS WARNING—Senator Flanders, Republican, Vermont, said Russia is winning the cold war by pushing the United States into spending "three times what we make." Declaring that Communist leaders are plotting to bankrupt this country, Flanders told a news conference: "I think Russia is doing a damn good job of it." . . . Foreign Recovery Administrator Paul G. Hoffman announced yesterday that he will leave for the Far East Saturday for an on-the-spot look at China's needs. . . . Secretary of Commerce Sawyer called at the White House and later brushed aside questions about reports that he might leave the Cabinet. . . . The Governor of North Carolina is one up on the Governor of South

Col. H. A. Myers To Command Georgia District

Col. Herbert A. Myers has been appointed commanding officer of the Georgia Military District, it was announced yesterday.

In his new post he will handle military affairs connected with civilian components under Lt. Gen. Alvan C. Gillem, commanding general of the Third Army.

Col. Myers' Army career covers 35 years. A native of Pennsylvania, Col. Myers hopes to make Atlanta his home when he retires from the service. He has been stationed here before, from 1937 to 1944.

Howard High School 'Gym' Bids High

The Atlanta Board of Education must dig again into current revenues if a new gymnasium is constructed at the David T. Howard Negro High School.

A dozen bids opened yesterday exceeded the $276,000 allocation and the low bidder was approximately $38,000 more than funds earmarked for the project if architects' fees are added.

Thomas W. Clift, School Business Manager, expressed disappointment at the high bids and said he will submit the low bid to a meeting of the Board in a special session, probably Saturday.

Bodin & Lamberson, architects, expressed the opinion that contractors had included another "round of wage raises in the contract price." They said every indication points towards another increase in labor costs.

Henry A. Ivey Company offered the lowest bid, totalling $299,960, including steel windows.

Other bids on the same basis follow:
Ray M. Lee Company, $387,500; Tri-State Construction Company, $343,000; Gilbert Beers, $301,170; A. Farnell Blair Company, Inc., $302,290; Dye Construction Company, Inc., $306,224; Arco Company, $317,780; Wey-Leonard Construction Company, $331,060; Black and Munn, $318,377; De-Give Dunham and O'Neill, Inc., $308,832; and Milon Construction Company, $345,700.

Practically all work done by funds provided in the 1946 bond issue has required supplements from current revenues because estimates made at that time were lower than actual bids for construction of the projects. The Board has expended approximately $1,000,000 in this manner.

Vet Board Chiefs Open 3-Day Meet In Macon Today

Office managers from 40 field offices of the State Veterans Service Board will convene in Macon today for a three-day course of instructions relative to recent changes in laws affecting veterans' services. Managers of the other 30 field offices will meet soon in Atlanta or another central point, C. Arthur Cheatham, Director, announces.

"These changes in the law make possible greater benefits for Georgia veterans," said Cheatham, "and will involve a review of 35,000 claims previously filed. Present load of the State Department is in excess of 140,000 claims."

Attending the meeting, besides Cheatham, will be Vaux Owen, Regional Manager of the Veterans Administration; C. D. Waddell, Chief Adjudication Officer; and Dr. C. H. McAllister, Chief Medical Officer of the out-patient service.

80th Congress Lobbying Probe Urged by Truman

WASHINGTON—(INS)—President Truman proposed yesterday "a thorough investigation of lobbying activities" in the Republican-controlled 80th Congress, which he has denounced as the "second worst" in American history.

He made this suggestion in a letter to Eric Peterson, General Secretary-Treasurer of the International Association of Machinists, which appealed to him to back such an inquiry.

Democrats echoed the President's desire. But there appeared to be no organized plan as yet to set an investigation in motion when the Democratic 81st Congress convenes Jan. 3.

Peterson, in a letter to Mr. Truman, issued a dire warning that the lobbies that were active in the 80th Congress would "redouble their efforts... in a last desperate attempt" to block the President's legislative program in the 81st Congress.

The President replied: "I think your organization has rendered a distinct public service in taking a stand on this matter."

"While it is up to the Congress to determine the subjects which will be investigated, I feel sure that a thorough investigation of lobbying activities would have a very salu-

2 GOP Solons Pledge Help For Housing

WASHINGTON—(P)—Sens. Flanders, Republican, Vermont, and Tobey, Republican, New Hampshire, announced yesterday they would join five Democrats in sponsoring housing legislation in the next Congress.

They issued a statement saying: "During the Eightieth Congress we actively supported comprehensive housing legislation. Nothing has occurred since then to alter our belief that immediate action must be taken to provide low rent housing units for low income families."

The New England Republicans said they would join Sens. Ellender, Democrat, Louisiana; Wagner, Democrat, New York; Myers, Pennsylvania; Sparkman, Democrat, Alabama, in introducing a bill.

"We hope," the statement added, "that Sen. Robert A. Taft, Republican, Ohio, who has fought so long for housing legislation will join with us in sponsoring this bill upon its return."

Flanders and Tobey said the bill they would push would have many of the features of the Taft-Ellender-Wagner Housing Bill which passed the Senate last April but died in the House.

Parts of that bill which will be proposed again include capital grants for slum clearance, 500,000 public rental housing units to be constructed over a five-year period, and housing research.

"We would like to add an escalator clause," the two Senators said, "instructing the President to build more or less than 100,000 units a year, depending upon conditions in the building industry. We also want to strengthen the provisions to make certain that no public rental housing shall compete with private enterprise."

Hall Nominated In Elberton

ELBERTON—W. E. Hall, well-known business and civic leader here, was nominated Mayor of Elberton. He defeated his nearest opponent, J. T. Sisk, by a margin of 34 votes.

Hall, a former Councilman, previously had served as mayor pro tem during one year of his term in Council.

Others nominated in last week's Democratic Primary were D. V. Bailey, re-elected to Council from the Third Ward, and G. M. Johnson, named to a post on Council from the Fourth Ward.

A general election to confirm the results of the Primary will be held Dec. 8.

torial giants, Capt. Evan P. Howell, Henry W. Grady and Jim Harrison.

The celebration also will include a pilgrimage to the famous Turnwald Plantation, where Harris as a boy listened to the tales told by George Terrell, an old Negro slave, and remembered them, later to put down in print the fables of Bre'r Rabbit, Bre'r Fox and all the other "critters" of the forest.

Mrs. John Rice, of 1588 West Peachtree St., President of the Uncle Remus Memorial Association, has announced that Atlanta members of the Association planned to attend the celebration sponsored by the Eatonville Uncle Remus Woman's Club. The Association, which holds in reverence "the Wren's Nest," Harris' West End Atlanta home, claims responsibility for getting the commemorative three-cent stamp issued, and Association members will mail letters from Eatonville to persons who helped in the project.

The Atlanta Constitution, "where Uncle Remus wuz born," and its Radio Station WGLI will take a big hand in the celebration. Special "Uncle Remus" envelopes are being printed for the newspaper and the radio station, and The Constitution will buy several thousand of the commemorative stamps to use in its business correspondence. The Constitution will mail thousands of "first-day covers" so highly valued by philatelists.

Emory University, home of more than 6,000 sheets of Harris literary manuscripts and other Harrisana, is planning a centennial program which will include a series of lectures and a memorial exhibition in the University Library.

All of these celebrations will be but additional honors to the shy, brilliant writer whose Uncle Remus volumes have been printed and reprinted in many languages for the enjoyment of adults and children the world over, and whose tales of Uncle Remus were a basis for Walt Disney's motion picture classic, "Song of the South."

Truman Okays Hoover Plan To Regroup Sixty Agencies

WASHINGTON—(P)—President Truman's approval of a plan to regroup approximately 60 Federal agencies which now report directly to the Chief Executive was announced yesterday by Herbert Hoover.

The former President, head of a bi-partisan commission which has been studying the executive branch of the Government, said each of these agencies would be put under a Cabinet-rank department or another agency called an "administration."

Hoover talked with reporters at the White House after he had conferred with Mr. Truman.

They first understood him to say the Commission will recommend that the 60 agencies be blanketed into one for more efficient house-keeping.

A spokesman said later, however, that the former President meant each agency would be placed either into (a) one of the nine existing Cabinet-rank departments or a proposed tenth, or (b) one of six administrations, each with a single head, which would handle matters in related fields.

One of these six administrations would be concerned solely with what are called "central services"—those which nearly all Government departments and agencies share.

The head of this agency would not be of Cabinet rank under the proposal. The Commission will recommend, Hoover said.

The spokesman for the former President said Hoover did not suggest any change in the setup of such semi-judicial independent

Hardware Thefts Of $100,000 Laid To Employees

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—(P)—Police charged last night a group of employees at Moore-Handley Hardware Company stole between $100,000 and $200,000 worth of goods during the past two years.

Two white shipping clerks and 12 Negroes were arrested on theft charges. Five of the Negroes were released after questioning and a sixth was jailed pending investigation.

The two white men and six other Negroes remained in jail.

Police Chief Floyd Eddins said about $20,000 worth of merchandise was recovered. He estimated 17 truckloads had been stolen this month.

Eddins said the men were accused of reporting for work early, loading merchandise on company trucks and dropping the stolen items off at storage points during regular trips.

Yule Preview Given Children Of Aidmore

Forty-eight crippled children at Aidmore yesterday got a "sneak" preview of Christmas when they attended a special Santa Claus party in the Toy Department of Sears Roebuck store on Ponce de Leon Avenue.

The young patients, some of whom were attending the annual party for the second time, had a veritable field day playing with toys of almost every size and type. In addition, Sears executives and store employees gave the youngsters a demonstration of how all the new-fangled gadgets work.

At the conclusion of the party, old Saint Nick himself made a personal appearance to chat with the children and give each of them a small pre-Christmas present. The jolly old gent from the North Pole also gave the children plenty of candy and nuts.

Special busses provided by the Suburban Bus Company carried the children to the party, and trucks, furnished by the company, transported the children's wheel chairs.

the city, and the contract that was offered and agreed to between the City and the County," Bowen said. "This injunction was signed on Thursday by Judge Frank Guess. I do not consider that the City is letting its paving contract at the lowest bid when the County is willing and able to do the work for approximately one-half the contract price."

Murphy said he learned of the injunction prior to preparing a folder that he mailed on Saturday and "naturally" used it in his folder.

Spurlin said he learned of the suit before his letter to the voters was completed and therefore referred to it in the letter. Meanwhile, the auditing firm of Metz and Metz cited an article in the deKaib New Era concerning the financial status of the City of Decatur as "misleading." A headline on the story stated "Auditors say finances are not in red." The auditing firm said "whether or not the City is in the red will be disclosed by our regular audit which is always made after the close of the calendar year."

The commission voted to ask the State to rebuild Garrett Bridge on the Campbellton Road to Mableton, and approved a budget for the coming year for salaries and expenses of Cox and his secretary for a total of $12,300, upping the budget from this year's figure of $11,580.

He went to Norfolk, in the same league, as playing-manager in 1913 and 1914. Norfolk won the pennant in 1914.

RR MEN THANKED

Flood-Halted Boy Found Here

Ten-year-old Newton Wilcox, en route during the week-end from the home of his grandparents in Macon to his residence in Rome, was "stranded" in Atlanta—alone—when heavy water halted the Southern Railroad's Ponce de Leon train.

That's what has worried father, Pres. C. R. Wilcox, of Darlington School, thought as he rushed to Atlanta by automobile after learning the train had been unloaded. Arriving at 11 p. m., he launched a search for Newton.

Dr. Wilcox finally found the youngster, well fed and sound asleep, at the home of the conductor, Sterling Slappey, of 911 Virginia Ave., N. E. The thoughtfulness of Slappey and O. R. Minnis, Southern representative at Rome, inspired Dr. Wilcox to write a strong letter of commendation to the railroad.

He's one of the happy fellows. Most of the fellows like me get down in the dumps sometimes, but he was always on the bright and cheerful side."

It was another Emory alumnus, incidentally, who conceived the idea of first presenting Dr. Presley's candidacy for the award last year. He was Dr. Horace Whitworth, a 1938 medical graduate of Emory who has been secretary of the Greenville County (S. C.) Medical Society for the past two years.

After the Norfolk pennant, an older doctor, Hugh H. Traut, of Roanoke, said to young Dr. Presley:

"Buck, you have got to choose. Are you going to be a ball player or a doctor?"

"Buck" chose doctoring, was offered a good job in Pittsburgh, but went back to Due West. He made $750 his first year as a county doctor. The first three winters he had to use a horse and buggy to get to his patients because the roads were so bad.

He has been a trustee of Erskine College for 26 years, and through the years has won numerous professional honors, the most recent being his appointment this year to the AMAs Council on Medical Education.

He has been President of the South Carolina Medical Association and Chairman of the Southern Medical Association Section on General Practice and of the Executive Committee of the SMA.

His wife, the former Elma Lipscomb, died this past September. Two daughters are living in Florida.

New Bofors Gun Seen As Anti-Jet Weapon

STOCKHOLM—(AP)—New anti-aircraft guns constructed by the Bofors Armament Works are said to help solve the problems of defense against jet planes and missiles of the V-1 and V-2 types.

The newspaper Dagens Nyheter, in reporting this, says that guns firing rate greatly exceeds that of earlier models. The newspaper says the new Swedish weapons make it possible to follow a target four or five times faster than with the fastest guns used previously.

Continental Seeks To Up Phone Rates

The Georgia Continental Telephone Company is asking the Georgia Public Service Commission for permission to increase its rates 41 percent.

The Company serves 20 towns and nearby rural areas in North-east and Southwest Georgia. Rates would be increased in Winder, Cuthbert, Dawson, Monroe, and Washington from $2.25 for residence and $3.75 for business phones to $3.50 and $5.25.

In Toccoa, business-phone rates would be increased from $3.50 to $5.50, and residential rates from $2.50 to $3.75.

Rates would be increased to $3.75 for business phones and $3.00 for residential phones in the following towns: Lincolnton, Ellaville, Emina Vista, Bluffton, Coleman, Edison, Fort Gaines, Lavonia, Morgan, Parrott, Preston, Sasser, Shellman, and Weston.

The Commission will resume hearing the petition tomorrow.

Radio Station Hits Telephone Service

Radio Station WLAG, of LaGrange, has protested with the Georgia Public Service Commission the alleged failure of the Southern Bell Telephone Company to provide proper line facilities for broadcasting football games.

The station said it had a contract with the telephone company for line facilities for the LaGrange-Decatur game in Atlanta and for the LaGrange-Gainesville game in Gainesville, and facilities were not provided either time.

R. B. Alford, Service Engineer with the Public Service Commission, said the matter would be referred to Chairman Walter McDonald for action.

Fulton Bills Are Readied For Assembly

The Fulton County Commission and the county legislative delegation, at a meeting to be held shortly, will consider local legislation to be submitted to the General Assembly for passage in January.

Passage of some 25 bills has been informally discussed and County Atty. W. S. Northcutt has outlined them in tentative form. Outlines have been sent both to members of the delegation to the Commission. Each bill must be adopted by the Commission before presentation to the Legislature on behalf of the county.

Several of the proposed bills would permit extension of municipal services to unincorporated areas.

One suggested bill would give the county authority to enforce speed limits and parking regulations in such areas. Another would give it power to assess abutting property in rural areas for streets and sidewalks. Another would allow assessments for water, fire protection and sewer systems.

Still another suggested bill would permit the county to issue "baby bonds" to be paid for by taxpayers benefited by the improvements. Another would make Cheering financial news was received late yesterday from State Revenue Commissioner Charlie Redwine. He reported gasoline tax collections during November set an all-time high record. They totaled $3,339,739.49, as compared with $3,187,942.80 in October and $3,143,633.98 in November, 1947. Gasoline taxes provide a major source of revenue for the State.

Talmadge said yesterday that Bill Ireland, the present Welfare Director who directed the State Training School for Boys at Milledgeville for more than 20 years, would resume directorship of the school for white boys at Milledgeville and the school for Negro boys at Augusta.

The Governor said he would announce the appointment of a new Welfare Director today. It is understood that Forrester, of Cordele, who served as State Revenue Commissioner during the administration of the late Gov. Eugene Talmadge in 1941-43, would be named Welfare Director. Forrester resigned yesterday as Deputy Regional Counsel of the War Assets Administration.

Mrs. J. A. Rollinson, of Waycross, well-known leader in women Democratic circles, yesterday resigned from the Welfare Department, where she has been in charge of institutions. Mrs. Rollinson held the post since 1943. She said she was leaving in a co-operative spirit because she knew the new Director would have many persons he wanted to appoint.

Mrs. Rainey, of Dawson, Representative-elect from Terrell County and widow of a former Chairman of the old State Prison Board, and Wilburn, of Oglethorpe, former State Highway Chairman, will succeed Mrs. Helen Coxon and Grover Byars on the three-member Parole Board, it is reported.

Soil Conservation Group To Ask for State Board

Members of the Georgia Soil Conservation District Supervisors' Association will ask the next session of the Georgia General Assembly to set up a constitution soil conservation commission.

The Association, annual meeting at the Henry Grady Hotel yesterday passed another resolution requesting the Commissioner of Agriculture to call a meeting of the Legislative Committee of the Georgia Farm Bureau Federation, the Georgia Feedmen's Association and the Georgia Soil Conservation District Supervisors Association to rewrite present Georgia seed laws in order to correct certain defects.

The resolution passed by the Soil Conservation District Supervisors' Association urges the designation of the Georgia Crop Improvement Association as the official agency to certify seed in Georgia and to require all seed produced outside and sold within the State to comply with the same minimum standards, rules and regulations applying to seed produced in the State.

Kids Promise Santa Superfine Behavior

By BILL BORING

The little blue-eyed girl wrote a letter to Santa and dropped it into his mail box at Davison's.

"Before I think about myself," she said, "I want you tobesure to go to see al the sick people and the poor. Would you mine bringing me a bickel, balarinta doll and an evening dress. Thanks a lot."

The true spirit of Christmas dwells in the hearts of children. Their letters to Santa tell you so. Listen to this one: "I want you to be sure to go to see all the sick people and the diner car also. Also a subscription to Roy Rogers comic books. I am enclosing 25 cents for a little poor boy. Love."

It warms your heart reading these letters. Almost invariably they tell Santa they'll have him something good to eat at the fireplace. And how they do repent of their little sins. Listen:

"If you'll bring these things I will try to be a worthy boy and do my chores without any back talk to mother and daddy."

Lot of these letters are just scratched all over. From the small fry. Lot of the letters are brief and to the point. Listen:

"I want a watch and train. That is all. P. S. Please bring it."

WEEP AND YOU WEEP ALONE: Receiver of the kids' letters at Davison's is a huge laughing Santa in the corner window. He's had just about everybody in town laughing with him, including the people on passing busses. Like on a Buckhead bus yesterday morning. Everybody laughed, including the bus driver. "We might as well," the driver called back to his passengers. "It ain't gonna be so funny when we get his bills Jan. 1."

ATLANTA VIGNETTE: The man looked sleepy and tired and as he prepared to board a plane at Municipal Airport he told a man with whom he had been passing a few remarks that he bet he'd drop off to sleep as soon as he hit his seat. The plane raced down the runway, then lifted into the air. It circled five or 10 minutes, then returned to the airport. Something had gone wrong. The tired businessman left the plane with the other passengers. He spotted his friend. "Seems like to me I saw you back in Atlanta," he said. Then he rubbed his eyes and realized what had happened.

FYI: Edison Marshall, the Augusta author, was introducing his agent, Paul Reynolds. He is the captain and crew, the hull and sails of my literary career," Marshall said. "And where do you come from?" Marshall was asked. "Oh, I furnish the wind." ... Mine Tree is a small town in Peach County. ... Atlanta gourmets who like to vary their breakfast menus with a spot of boiled salt mackerel now and then have long known where to find it. In the breakfast room of a downtown hotel. The other day, though, mackerel was missing from the menu. "First time in our history," the waitress explained, nonplussed. Next day it was right back on the list of available.

Hospital Staff Quits in Dispute With Trustees

MARTINSVILLE, Ind. — (P) — Twenty-two employees of the Morgan County Memorial Hospital walked out yesterday and the institution was closed.

The 13 patients in the hospital were removed late Monday. Some were taken to their homes and others to a sanitarium here. The hospital served three counties.

The walkout climaxed a three-week dispute between the employees and the hospital Board of Trustees. Seven of the employees are registered nurses.

The employees threatened to

PRINCESS SHARES

United Kingdom Nov. 14 Mothers To Get Parcels

LONDON — (P) — Princess Elizabeth announced yesterday a share-the-gifts plan for the mothers of all babies born in the United Kingdom on the same day as her son.

The gifts are food parcels sent to the Princess ever since her wedding on Nov. 20, 1947. Some of these food parcels already have been distributed to needy families but enough are on hand to make up new parcels for the Nov. 14 mothers.

The Ministry of Food, announcing it has received instructions from the Princess to make the food distribution, said a list of the mothers is now being compiled by the Government's Vital Statistics Bureau. It was unable to estimate the number of babies born on the same day as the Prince.

Many of the parcels have come from the United States.

Negro 'Opportunity' Plan Urged by Mississippians

JACKSON, Miss. — (P) — Thirteen white and Negro Mississippians yesterday petitioned the people of the State to equalize educational opportunities and to make "provisions for the Negro to participate normally in the practice of his citizenship."

The petition was addressed, "To the People of Mississippi." It was released here by H. Brent Schaeffer, a Jackson Lutheran minister and one of the signers.

The appeal called for the appointment by Gov. Fielding L. Wright of "at least two commissions, each to be composed of recognized leaders of the white and colored groups."

At his office in the capitol, Gov. Wright said he had not seen a copy of the appeal.

Signers of the petition included Hodding Carter, of Greenville, author and Pulitzer Prize-winning editor.

One commission would study Negro educational problems and recommend a program to "bring up the colored education system to a par with that of the white section."

The other would "seek to formulate a program of relationships in the civic body which will strive to meet the requirements necessary for our day and foster good will and mutual confidence."

"We are confident," the petition asserted, "that no outside power can upset segregation standards of the State as long as these are a part of the State's legal foundation and accepted by general custom and practice, provided there is an aggressive and harmonious effort to adjust and eliminate inequities and discriminations."

"The splendid efforts being made in a few counties to provide for the Negro better educational and citizenship opportunities should become Statewide in scope."

Pace Happy Peanut Cut Wasn't 35 Pct. as Set

At Americas last night, Rep. Steven Pace, the "peanut authority in Congress" and ranking Democratic member of the House Agricultural Committee, said he was pleased the Government did not slash the peanut acreage as much as originally planned.

Original plans called for a 35 percent reduction in the peanut acreage. Pace was in Washington over the weekend, fighting to have the Department of Agriculture reduce the acreage only 10 percent. The Congressmen considered the 22 percent cut a reasonable compromise.

"The Government could not long support the price of an unlimited production of peanuts," Pace agreed. "The new production control program will give the farmers an opportunity of co-operating with the Government in maintaining a good price for their product. It also will mean the improvement of some farm land, since some farmers were planting more peanuts than were good for the soil."

The wartime demand for peanuts caused the unregulated production to soar to record production.

Pace pointed out this production now is far in excess of the demand so the production will be reduced. The consumption is 700,000 tons this year while the production is 1,444,000 tons.

Before the war, the peanut acreage totaled 1,800,000. Pace said a control program was put into effect in 1941, but it was abandoned when the War Food Administration called for more production to supply food and oils. The acreage has jumped to 3,400,000 this year. The new control program will cut the acreage to 2,611,367 next year.

The Congressman said he would resume his attempt at the next session to get the Government to put a floor price under peanut production. He said the Department of Agriculture rejected the request this year for lack of funds and because many other producers also had filed such applications. The bumper crop of peanuts this year caused the price to slump, but Pace said the price situation might be improved with an anticipated lower crop next year.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Brannan announced yesterday a 1949 peanut production program calling for a cut of 22 percent in the planted acreage. A declining demand was given as the reason for the reduction.

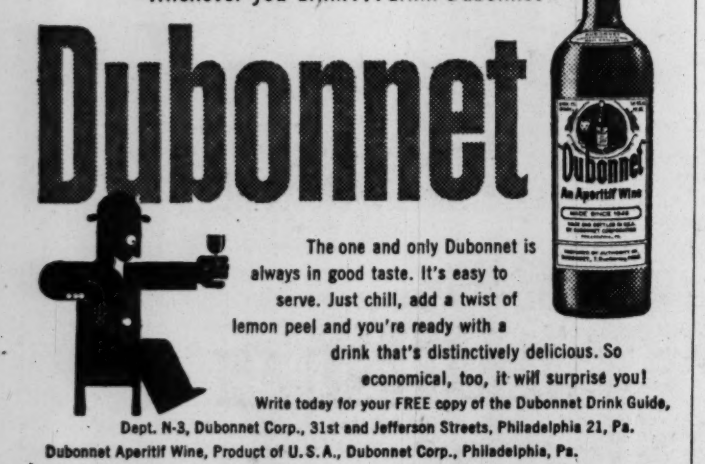

Next year's peanut crop will be grown and marketed under rigid Government controls. These were authorized by growers in a referendum a year ago.

The 1949 planting goal was set at 2,611,367 acres. This compares with 3,400,000 acres planted this year. Brannan said the national planting goal should produce a crop of about 850,000 tons. This goal will be divided among peanut producing States.

HE WANTED A POSTAL GUIDE

TONKAWA, Okla. (AP)—Tonkawa's three-week old case of the missing letters has been solved. Littered letters twice were found on the town's streets. Each was unopened. How they got there was Postmaster Harry J. Barclay's No. 1 problem.

They didn't, he reasoned, just fly away. Barclay was almost right—but not quite. Because Postman Paul Walker reported they were flying. With assistance, that is.

ORGANIST HERE—M. Marcel Dupre and Mme. Dupre, breakfasting yesterday in Atlanta, prepare for a two-day rest for Dupre's appearance here tonight in an organ concert at Presser Hall, Agnes Scott College.

DUPRE WAS CHILD PRODIGY

By DORIS LOCKERMAN

When the post as organist of the Church of St. Vivian in Rouen was offered him at the age of 12, Marcel Dupre accepted the commission with no surprise whatever.

"I was born in organ," he said simply yesterday. "My father, mother, both my grandfathers, my whole family had been in music for generations."

His wife, a former English Professor of the University of Paris, and a student at Oxford University, smiled indulgently. "I was and am his pupil," she said proudly. "And our daughter, Marguerite, is a fine pianist. She toured America playing concerts with her father."

The Parisian Dupres were guests at breakfast at the Atlanta Athletic Club of Mrs. Charles Chalmers, dean of Atlanta Chapter, American Guild of Organists, and Joseph Regan. The Atlanta Guild will present the world-famous organist tonight in concert at Presser Hall, Agnes Scott campus.

Dupre's appearance here will be part of an extended concert tour of America which will add 75 recitals to his 1,700 public concerts in a long life of organ virtuosity.

Dupre's evolution, as the most distinguished living organist developed from a beginning as a child prodigy whose first public recital was Bach's Prelude to the "Cathedral" Fugue in E. Minor, which he played at the age of eight.

His parents knew they had a genius and prayed that he did not find it out. For many years the organist at St. Sulpice in Paris, Dupre never missed a mass during the German occupation of France, though he

16-YEAR-OLD STAR 'Mickey' Pleases Tower Patrons

In this day of sultry screen heroines, employing wiles that would cause Cleopatra to blush, it is refreshing indeed to see a picture like "Mickey," starring cute Lois Butler and now showing at the Tower Theatre.

The story of "Mickey" is simple in plot design. It revolves around a motherless tomboy, whose young doctor-father (Bill Goodwin), with the aid of Bertha (Hattie McDaniel), is doing the best he can to raise the child. Lois Butler, in the title role, is 16 and has a promising voice, which she displays to good advantage in this entertaining picture, filmed in Cinetone.

For something different in screen fare, that will afford pleasure to the entire family, "Mickey" is heartily recommended.

Sub-Zero Oil Developed

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Development of an automobile motor oil capable of remaining fluid in temperatures down to 60 degrees below zero is announced by MacMillan Petroleum Corp.

The new product, developed by the company's oil technologists, will add starting and lubrication in sub-zero climate, L. L. Rebber, MacMillan's director of research, said. He said it is fortified against oxidation, foaming and varnish while retaining fluid strength and penetrating qualities.

The company's tests showed little ring or bearing wear, very light carbon sludge and normal oil consumption, Rebber added.

By RITA VAN PELT

It pays to know all the techniques... what with only one more month left in the year, girls. So tonight at 10:30 on the Meredith Wilson Show over WCON-ABC we're going to learn the South African method of catching a husband—that is, if we listen to Josef Marais and Miranda when they sing about a maid of the veldt. Seems she offers to exchange her herd of goats for (you guessed it) a man.

Also highlighted on the fast-sic will be "Haywire Mac," who moving half-hour of fun and mu- returns to the air with another show-stopping tune titled, "The Whiskers." Teenager Paulena Carter has chosen "Until" as her piano solo, and the cute little "Talking People" will tell about the correct pronunciation of our favorite instrument, the flute. Sounds interesting but what we want to know is: Has anybody got a herd of goats?

Paris Honeymoon

"The movies were never like this," say two former child actors who will be presented with a dream honeymoon in Paris following their marriage on WCON-ABC's Bride and Groom broadcast today at 2:30. The bride formerly had film parts supporting Shirley Temple and Gloria Jean, while the groom played roles with Freddie Bartholomew.

Perrins Perform

WSB's popular piano twosome, the Perrins, will be featured in another "Piano Panorama" at 7:30 p. m. The duo will present "It's a Most Unusual Day," "Laura" and the Suite from the original score of "Finian's Rainbow."

Family Act

Another family act scheduled for the kilocycles this p. m. is the Bing Crosby show, slated for WCON-ABC at 10. Bing will have as his special guest tonight brother Bob who will bring along mikeside his nine-year-old daughter Cathy, who will demonstrate her remarkably good lyrical voice. Bing and Bob will hark back to their school days to recall some very amusing events.

Dr. Christian

After spending 10 years in prison for a crime he didn't commit, a man is exonerated because Dr. Christian sees fit to do a bit of eavesdropping. It's "The Man Who Talked," another episode of the Dr. Christian story to be heard at 8:30 tonight on WAGA-CBS.

Health Film

WAYCROSS—"The Rat. Our Enemy," an educational film on the control of typhus, was shown to the Kiwanis Club of Waycross at their regular weekly luncheon meeting by Glenn S. Odell, representative of the Way County Health Department. The program was arranged by Dr. Buell Herzig.

U. S. Court Tosses Out Folsom Suit

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—(AP)—

Gov. James E. Folsom's suit to make Alabama's presidential electors support President Truman was thrown out of Federal Court here yesterday.

U. S. District Judge C. B. Kennamer dismissed the Governor's petition for a permanent injunction to prevent the electors from voting for the States' Rights ticket; a mandamus to require them to support Mr. Truman, and a declaratory judgment defining the rights of electors.

On Nov. 17 the Judge denied a request for a temporary injunction against the electors, who are pledged to vote for Gov. J. Strom Thurmond. Kennamer dismissed the suit because, he said, his Court had no jurisdiction. He also refused to rule on constitutionality of a 1945 Alabama law which says the electors must support the national party nominee.

Jack Crenshaw, chief counsel for the Governor, said Kennamer's ruling would be appealed to higher courts, perhaps direct to the U. S. Supreme Court.

CHANNING COPE'S ALMANAC:

Stabilize Land And Stop Floods

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 1, 1948

Suggestion of the day: Ride out to the river and see the thousands of pounds of pork chops, milk, butter, eggs, steaks and cornmeal floating down the stream. That mud you see is the topsoil which should have been translated into food and fiber. How long shall we continue to allow this awful waste to take place?

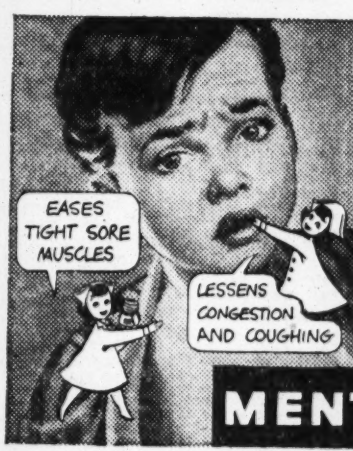

NATURE IS TEACHING

Nature, the cruellest but most effective teacher, is trying to tell us there is no substitute for stabilized farms and road banks and that the best way to accomplish this is through the medium of close growing plants. We can build dams to our hearts' content, but these will not stop floods unless the land above the dams is stabilized.

Years ago somebody built a dam on the Yellow River (for instance) and now the channel is filled up with topsoil to a depth of 16 feet in places and the river comes out of its banks at the slightest invitation. Years ago somebody built a dam (for instance) at Gainesville, Ga., and called it Dunlap Falls and today that dam is no more and the old basin is filled entirely. Some one built a dam on the Chattahoochee (for instance) and called it Bull Suice and today it is almost out of commission and the reservoir all but filled up.

Getting back closer to home, the Alcovy River, which is our neighbor, and which, like the Yellow empties into Jackson Lake, is so far out of its banks at this writing that one of our neighbor's herd of cattle was cut off and drowned, a

Do We Need Additional Circuits?

The Jones County News quotes "usually reliable sources" to the effect that a bill is to be passed by the next General Assembly partitioning the Ocmulgee Circuit of Superior Court.

The Ocmulgee Circuit is composed of eight counties and is one of the larger in the State, being exceeded only by the Northeastern, which has nine.

The proposed division, according to the News, would put Jones, Jasper, Morgan and Wilkinson Counties in one circuit and Baldwin, Greene, Putnam and Hancock in another. Legislative courtesy being what it is, we have no doubt that a bill providing for the additional circuit will be enacted without delay if agreeable to the Representatives of the eight counties involved.

Perhaps it should be.

Certainly if the growth of litigation under the court's jurisdiction has been such as to necessitate additional aid, no one can object to it being provided. Georgia justice is irritatingly slow at best and everything possible should be done to improve it.

Unfortunately, however, we get the impression that the move to set up another circuit stems at least in part from politics since the News reveals that both the judge and solicitor for the projected additional circuit have already been agreed upon. Indeed, the lead on the News's story of the division deals primarily with the political personages involved rather than with the new circuit itself.

To this, thoughtful persons rightfully will object.

Too frequently, in the past, judicial circuits and even counties have been set up to take care of this or that political worthy without regard to the actual need.

The Legislature should indeed provide relief to overworked judges and solicitors by splitting up existing judicial circuits where indicated. But it should be done only after a careful study of all the factors involved, and not on the basis of making work for a political favorite.

A Distinguished Visitor

One of America's most distinguished artists, John Carroll, will come to Atlanta Thursday as guest of The Gallery. He will be presented to the public there and at the High Museum of Art, where he will give a lecture, illustrating it with actual work on canvas. The Gallery has done many fine things for art in Atlanta. Exhibitions never before available to the city have been brought here and the coming of Mr. Carroll is another worthy contribution. There is not an art gallery of note in America which does not own at least one of his paintings. He is a painter of horses, of landscapes and of portraits, being especially famous for the latter. Next Sunday The Gallery will present an exhibition of portraits and, fittingly enough, a number of Mr. Carroll's own paintings, which are on loan from the Philadelphia Museum of Art, will be a part of it.

The City Is Again in the Black

At a time when local governments are increasingly beset with deficits, it is reassuring to note the City of Atlanta will probably wind up the current year in the black again.

Atlanta will probably have a cash operating surplus in excess of $2,000,000, Comptroller Graham West told the Budget Commission considering contemplated expenditures for 1949. This is some $200,- 000 more than the $1,800,000 surplus shown at the beginning of the present year.

The budget for next year, incidentally, is presently estimated in the neighborhood of $17,000,000. This is the largest in the city's history, but hardly exorbitant considering the times and our municipal growth. The average citizen won't complain as long as it is spent efficiently and our expenditures remain within our income.

Farmers Know Farm Land Values

The National Planning Association is wasting its time advising the average farmer against buying additional land at inflated prices.

Its counsel doubtless will prove profitable to thousands of city residents who have a recurring urge to buy some acreage and go to farming.

But few people know better the value of farm land than the farmers themselves. And, having lived through the boom and bust days of the twenties, most of them know that today's inflated prices will not hold forever. They recall the sheriffs' sales of overmortgaged farms on the steps of every courthouse. And they have not forgotten the return to share-cropping of many once-prosperous land-owners who could not resist the lure of expansion.

Most farmers are satisfied with the size of their acreage. Indeed, with help becoming increasingly scarce and expensive, the trend is, with the exception of highly mechanized operations, to smaller, more easily cultivated plots.

Real estate inflation is not nearly as bad in rural as in urban areas. And that which does exist is due only in small degree to farmers.

State to Have 'Secretary of Commerce'?

It is probable that the position of "Secretary of Commerce" will be created for the Talmadge administration. This would not be a new job. It would be a revamping of the present Agricultural and Industrial Development Board. Some Legislators are talking of abolishing the AID Board and the Georgia Citizens' Council and then re-establishing the former on a more modest scale with the title "Secretary of Commerce."

The AID Board is composed of some 25 prominent Georgians who meet twice a year, and form the policy to be followed by an Executive Director and his staff of paid workers. The "Secretary of Commerce" would have more authority than the AID director—he would run his own office and would have a non-paid advisory board of a half-dozen prominent Georgians. The AID Board spent as high as a quarter million dollars in its early planning days under Gov. Arnall and then leveled off to an annual expenditure of $80,000 under Acting Gov. Thompson. Solons believe the "Secretary of Commerce" should be limited to $50,000 annually for a budget.

Since Gov. Talmadge campaigned on a keynote of developing Georgia agriculturally and industrially, he undoubtedly would favor the proposed creation of a "Secretary of Commerce."

THE LONE Republican in the incoming Georgia Senate fears that the sales tax may kill the proposed Minimum Foundation Program for Education. Sen. Osborn L. Foster, of Hiwassee, who is serving his second term (not consecutively, of course) as a Senator, believes the people want the educational development program. He believes they will be willing to pay additional money to get it. But Foster thinks that the antagonism to a sales tax—which he terms a nuisance and a hardship on the poor people—will cause the people to defeat the whole program.

"If the Legislature passes a sales tax to finance the education program, the people will defeat it in a referendum and we will not get the education program," Foster predicts. "The Legislature should pass a finance plan which would have some chance of passage by the people. Otherwise, we will be right back where we started from, and the work of the Legislature will amount to nothing."

REP. JESSE L. WALTON, of Fulton County, who, more than anyone else in the new Legislature, will represent labor's interests, predicts that the 1949 General Assembly will repeal the labor-curbing bills passed in 1947. The bills banning closed shops and massed picketing were passed overwhelmingly by the Legislature, but they have been openly violated without penalty by business firms and labor alike. Labor disliked both Acting Gov. Thompson and the present Gov. Talmadge because they both signed the measures during the "two-Governor" feud. Walton says the new Legislature will be asked to repeal these bills and follow the legislation of the new Congress. The new Congress will repeal the Taft-Hartley Act, Walton says.

HENRY McINTOSH, editor-emeritus of the Albany Herald, who was chairman of the Georgia Democratic Electors and directed President Truman's campaign in this State, should be named National Committeeman, former Acting Gov. Thompson says. Thompson, in his political weekly, the Georgia Democrat, says National Committeeman Robert Elliott, of Columbus, should either resign or be unseated for his failure to support the Democratic presidential candidate.

RALPH McGILL

Little Giffen Of Tennessee

COLUMBUS, Ga.—Now and then you read of a man you wish you might have known. For me Francis Orray Ticknor is one. I never came to Columbus but I think about him. His own generation neglected him. Posterity has followed suit. Yet, this gentle person and gentleman, had he been able to find a little leisure, might have become one of our great lyric poets. As it was he wrote poetry much better than that which has brought considerable fame to less able men.

He died in 1874 at his home near Columbus. His wife was the daughter of an officer in the war against the British in 1812. His own life was that of men still living. We are so young a country, and yet one so swiftly thrown into the complexities of the machine and the industrial revolution, which continues with accelerated pace.

Parents He was born at Fortville, Ga., in Jones County, son of a Connecticut physician and a Connecticut mother. (You think of that, too, in the days when a certain curious mentality objects to "outsiders." Most of what we have was, quite inevitably, built by men who came from the North—our University, our institutions, our laws, and much of our music and literature. We are all Americans and we must work as Americans. No section has a monopoly on good people.) His father settled at Savannah but after his death the mother moved to Columbus where she set about educating her three children. Francis was sent to Massachusetts for college and then to medical schools at Philadelphia and New York, returning to Georgia to practice in 1843. He had the usual large country practice of his time. But medicine was his second love. He was a poet and a farmer at heart. He cultivated a large fruit orchard, reserving it for his own hands. He tended also large gardens of flowers. And he wrote lovingly of both, sending the articles to the Southern Cultivator. He wrote also on music and drafting. But most of all he wrote poetry.

Giffen The poem which best illustrates his talent is "Little Giffen." As a boy in Tennessee I memorized it. It was based on Dr. Ticknor's own experiences in the Confederate hospital at Columbus.

"Out of the focal and foremost fire,
Out of the hospital walls as dire,
Smitten of grape-shot and gangrene,
(Eighteenth battle and he sixteen!)
Specter, such as you seldom see,
Little Giffen, of Tennessee,
'Take him and welcome!' the surgeons said,
'Little the doctor can help the dead.'
So we took him, and brought him where
The balm was sweet on the Summer air;
And we laid him down on a wholesome bed—
Utter Lazarus, heel to head."

The poem goes on to tell of how for months on months the boy struggled, "skeleton boy against skeleton death!" At last he was on crutches. The hearts of the household, long since won, taught him to write. His first letter was to his mother. The next to his captain. The captain replied, "Of eighty and five, Giffen and I are left alive."

"Word of gloom from the war, one day;
Johnston pressed at the front, they say.
Little Giffen was up and away;
A tear—his first—he had good-by.
Dimmed the glint of his steel-blue eye.
'I'll write, if spared!' There was news of the fight;
But none of Giffen. He did not write."

I sometimes fancy that were I king
Of the princely knights of the Golden Ring,
With the song of the minstrel in mine ear,
And the tender legend that trembles here,
I'd give the best on this bended knee,
The whitest soul of my chivalry,
For 'Little Giffen,' of Tennessee."

I wish I could have known this man, who liked trees and flowers and books and who wrote poetry which revealed his heart. And Little Giffen, from some backwoods in Tennessee—what a story it would have been had he come back to the doctor and the family that had saved his life so that he might lose it fighting with a hold greater than any Southern commander ever knew. I always find myself thinking of him all here in Columbus.

BILLY ROSE

Give the Truck Full Credit

The other night at a java and johnnycake joint on Sixth Avenue I ran into a reporter friend of mine named Sam Becker.

Body and by-line have been missing for a couple of weeks," I said. "What cave have you been hiding in?"

"Cave 1106 at the Hotel Statler in Boston," said Sam. "Big story?"

"Strange would be a better word," said the reporter, "but unfortunately I can't use the yarn because I can't prove some of the facts."

"Maybe it would help you to talk about it," I suggested. "Try it for about 800 words."

"Well," Sam said, "three weeks ago, at 11 p. m., a man was seen rushing off Pier 90, screaming and waving his arms like crazy. As he was high-tailing it across the street, a truck swiped him, and when the ambulance came, he was marked D. O. A.—dead on arrival."

"Except for the guy's hysterics, it looked like a routine accident and the cops were handling it accordingly. At the morgue they went through his pockets and found a key to a midtown hotel room, two crumpled Dixie cups, about $80 in money, and a Massachusetts driver's license issued to Charles Fitzgerald, of Boston."

Clues "A check at the hotel showed that a Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald had arrived two days before, and that Mrs. F. had been scheduled to sail for Europe that night on the same pier where her husband was killed. The only other clue was a telegram from a Dr. Shelley in Boston which had arrived a few minutes after the couple left for the boat, but it merely referred to the state of Mrs. Fitzgerald's health."

"After a call to the steamship line had verified that the lady was actually on board, the police got her on the radio-telephone and told her the news."

"Five days later, Mrs. F. flew back from Cherbourg to do the right and proper by the corpse, and then went on to Boston."

"I put it up to my editor, and he agreed to let me go to Boston and do a little shovel work. There, I did a lot of talking with the medico who had sent the telegram, with the Fitzgeralds' neighbors, and Mrs. F. herself. In pretty certain I've got the answer, but as I said, I can't print it because I can't prove it."

"According to the neighbors, Charles Fitzgerald wasn't the proper Bostonian he pretended to be. He had married his wife for her dough, and ever since the nuptials he had been spending most of his afternoons playing bridge for big stakes and most of his nights playing the field. Mrs. F., on the other hand, was one of those frail, long-suffering females who never protest in words, but let it all come out in symptoms. She was a hypochondriac of the worst sort, and it was at Doc Shelley's suggestion that she had sailed for France—he told her she needed more sun, but admitted to me that what she really needed was less husband."

Theory "So far, Billy, I've given you facts, but from here on it's guesswork. It's my theory that it was the ocean voyage which gave Fitzgerald his big idea—to murder his wife and take over her estate. He planned what he thought was the perfect crime and, with the doctor's help, here's how I reconstructed it:

"Mrs. Fitzgerald, a chronic insomniac, used a lot of sleeping pills and so, over a course of days or weeks, Fitzgerald managed to sneak a dozen of them out of her pill box. The night of the sailing—to cover up—he wired the doctor that he was worried about the amount of sedatives his wife was using, and asked for his advice. Then he went on board with the murder weapons—a bottle of Scotch and two paper cups. He knew his wife hated Scotch, but he figured he could get her to take a drink because of the special occasion."

"It's my belief that in one of those paper cups was the powder from enough sleeping tablets to kill Joe Louis."

"At this moment, X—the thing a murderer seldom makes provision for—went to work. Mrs. Fitzgerald, as she admitted to me, waited for the moment when her husband's back was turned, then, not wanting the Scotch, poured the contents of her cup into Mr. F.'s and pretended to bottoms-up."

"While waiting on the pier for the boat to pull out, he looked at the telltale cups and noticed there wasn't any lipstick on the one with traces of undissolved powder at the bottom. Suddenly it crossed his mind that his wife must have done what he had seen her so often at parties—dumped her unwanted drink into his. Screaming for help, he ran out into the street and the truck clipped him."

"Simple justice," I said. "The truck killed a no-good guy who was going to die anyhow."

"No," said the reporter, "the truck is entitled to full credit, and Fitzgerald would be alive today if the doctor's telegram had reached him in time. You see, the message which started me on this wild goose chase read: 'NO CAUSE FOR ALARM. MRS. FITZGERALD'S INSOMNIA PURELY PSYCHOLOGICAL. SLEEPING TABLETS NOTHING BUT SUGAR.'"

Tonsils Back If Not Satisfied?

A baby was born last week in a New York department store.

Do your Christmas shopping early.

Babies have been born under strange circumstances but, so far as I can determine, this is the first to arrive gift-wrapped.

The child was born in the store infirmary, which is a shame in a way. Think what a thrill he'd have gotten telling the other kids that he first saw the light of day in sporting goods, home furnishings or even men's underwear.

Fortunately, the store detectives didn't hear of the incident until the next day. Otherwise they might not have allowed the baby to leave the store since the mother couldn't show a sales slip for its purchase.

Seriously, there was no charge for the service, the store making a policy of free deliveries.

But, having realized the capabilities of its infirmary personnel, the management may well begin merchandising tonsillectomies.

Editor Constitution: Beefsteak! Beefsteak! Chaw-Chaw-Chaw! Wally-B! Bobby-D! Raw! Raw! So you think the teams of today would run the teams of some 20 years ago off the field, eh, Mr. Editor? Now, that would be a spectacle worth seeing, to be sure. Just fancy today's "Techs," or the Bulldogs, or any other team you can think of, running the 1928 Yellow Jackets, or the Alabama teams of 1930 and 1934, off the field. Perhaps with Tommyguns, Mr. Editor, or hand grenades, but certainly not with footballs. In those days the game belonged to the players. The quarterback, who made the team partly because of his brains, ran the game, and coaching from the sidelines, as you well know, was against the rules and penalized by a yardage. But if the poor kid they call a quarterback today starts any funny business, like thinking, the mastermind on the bench gets up and starts limping up and down the sidelines, and shoots in a flock of substitutes to tell him to cut it out—he ain't supposed to think! Progress in Forsyth

Editor Constitution: In your editorial of Sunday, Nov. 21, you wrote about conditions in our County based on 1940 census reports. This County has progressed more since 1940 than any county I know of.

I am not insinuating that the 1940 census figures used are not correct. They are, but so are 1945 figures. It is my opinion as an agricultural worker, that Forsyth County "has made more progress in agriculture since 1940 than any other county in Georgia. It is true that we had more room for progress than most other counties. Please notice the contrast between 1940 census figures and 1945 census. Especially notice the increase in value of livestock and products, value of all farm products, and number of owners.

Value of farms	$2,619,847	$3,755,066
Farms with electricity	647	1,168
Farms with telephones	14	164
Tractors on farms	49	144
Value of all crops sold	$557,645	$867,230
Value of livestock and livestock products sold	$218,631	$4,158,375
Value of all farm products sold or used at home per farm	$581	$3,241
Number of full farm owners	731	1,004
Proportion of tenancy	62.1	42.1

Let us notice the important increases in the values of different farm items and equipment listed in the 1940 and 1945 census reports. Note the increase in the number of homes with electricity in 1945 over 1940. There were 521 more houses with electricity then than in 1940. This was during the war years when electrical materials were hard to get. The REA manager informed me that there are 2,000 rural homes that now have electricity. This same situation is true of telephones. In 1940 there were 14 telephones listed on farms in this County. The Bell Telephone construction superintendent told me recently that we now have 454 rural telephones. In 1945 there were 114 farm tractors, an increase of 65 over the 1940 census figure. We probably have at least 200 farm tractors now. The value of our farm crops is not too much higher than in 1945 but our per acre yield has increased far more than the average for the State. These increases were brought about by several factors, among which are improved seed, improved cultural practices and mainly through the use of the vast quantity of chicken manure produced by the millions of broilers raised in this County and sold throughout the country.

Our farm ownership is still increasing. Since 1945, when the proportion of farm tenancy had decreased from 62.1 to 42.1 percent, we have seen it further decrease. At least half of our farm operators are full farm owners.

Mr. McGill, please note the progress we have made in pasture work and livestock production other than in raising broilers. During the past two years there have been over 1,500 acres of improved pastures seeded with Ladino clover and Kentucky 31 fescue grass. Our County seat is the headquarters for the North Georgia Kentucky 31 Fescue Association, whose purpose is to increase the use of this fine grass throughout the State.

Since 1945 we have seen dairymen expanded in this section. There are now 10 Grade A dairies with several other farmers planning on entering the dairy business. We now have several purebred and mixed beef herds on our farms. Both purebred and scrub beef herds are increasing. They will increase even more, now that Kentucky 31 fescue grass and Ladino clover pastures have proved so successful in furnishing year-round grazing.

The County school superintendent wanted me to let you know that our school situation is also improving. Last year our two high schools graduated 100 students. Of these, at least 25 percent entered college. This is a brighter picture than you painted.

Is Atlanta That Poor?

Editor Constitution: I have read with some interest the condition of your city dog pound and it's a pity that it couldn't be kept out of the papers if nothing is going to be done about it but excuses offered.

I applaud those trying to do something and if the City of Atlanta is in such rotten shape financially they can't foot the bill maybe outsiders will. I will start it with $25 if you wish. Where are all the highbinders who write so many columns about this and that? Your high-falutin clubs who do all the work, they say—why don't some of them get behind it?

Well, it might be a great town but I have my opinion of a town that treats its dumb animals the way the letters say they are treated there. Columbus. J. E. MALONE.

All for Arnall

Editor Constitution: I would like to get in this scrap about Ellis Arnall. Since Marion Jones demanded to know "who in Georgia cared a whoop about Arnall," several Georgians have come to the defense of our former Governor. There were three letters in the Nov. 23 issue of The Constitution defending Arnall, two of the letters recommending him for a Cabinet post. I, too, hope Mr. Arnall will be given a Cabinet post. His is the intellectual, artistic mind, and he was the best Governor Georgia ever had.

Thanks to W. M. James, Julia Smith, Dr. E. C. Swanson, and others, for showing Marion Jones who cares a whoop about whom!

Cof Officials Laud North Ga. Farmer

By MARJORY SMITH

Constitution Staff Writer

COUNTY LINE—"I have to take off my hat to North Georgia's farm families—they've stepped out of old ruts and are really making progress."

That accolade came yesterday from John A. Wayt, President of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce Farmers Club, which is sponsoring the Second Annual North Georgia Farm Community Improvement Contest.

Wayt accompanied contest judges on an all-day tour of Barrow and Walton County finalists, now competing with 30 other county winners for a $1,000 state first prize.

"These two winners, County Line and Gratis, deserve a pat on the back from their counties—and from the whole state," the Atlanta avowed.

In County Line Wayt shook hands with 14-year-old Clifford Rainey, who painted 41 mail boxes in his community's clean-up drive. He heard second-grader Sara Ann Butler tell how she "just loved" her new model classroom at the County Line School. He saw neighbors pitching in to help Gordy Freeman with hog-killing, and marvelled over Barrow County's four-year increase from 5 to 51 dairies.

Judges took a long look at the renovated-in-one-day Carlyle-Blakely farm.

"But we think day-by-day improvements on our homes, church and school are just as important," Community Chairman Kermit Wages said.

Over in Walton County's Gratis, Wayt found a community interested in "our crop of citizens" as well as all-around farm improvements.

Gratis is reaching that goal by practical means. The community this year built a new Baptist Church, with men and boys working and the women feeding them from the nearby school lunchroom.

Citizens bought an acre of land and made it into a community playground. They established a milk route and worked out a co-operative plan for buying and selling chickens. They bought another two acres where they will erect a Negro school for education of children in the community's 42 Negro families.

Labor and farm equipment are exchanged by neighboring farmers. Twenty-five telephones were installed this year through efforts of the Community Improvement Club. Gratis dynamited new ditches in bottom lands, planted winter cover crops and set out 30,000 kudzu crowns where erosion had begun.

Maconites Endangered By Ocmulgee

Gushing, stubborn flood waters pose a menace to danger spots in central and southern portions of Georgia and Alabama while slowly receding in the other water-hit areas.

Creek-bank dwellers returned to their homes in the Atlanta area.

But the Coast Guard has posted 24 men and 10 assault boats in southwestern Alabama, where the brimming Alabama River brings a new threat. Selma and Camden are critical points. More than 100 Negro families have been evacuated from Camden. More than 500 persons are being cared for in shelters at Montgomery.

The Ocmulgee River, fed by an overflow at Jackson Lake Dam, reached 28 feet and a new record at Macon. Families in the danger zone were evacuated as the river jumped one levee and was held in check only by thousands of tons of sandbags dumped for emergency dikes.

At Macon several industries were forced to stop using—of all things—water. The flood had put five of the city's 10 pumping station filters out of operation.

As high waters reduced the fall necessary for high electric production at power dams, the Georgia Power Company issued a state-wide appeal for its users to curtail electric consumption as much as possible, especially during the peak hours of 10 a. m. to 12 noon, and 6 p. m. to 7 p. m.

In Atlanta gasoline buses were being substituted on some transit lines for trackless trolleys, to conserve power.

The Ocmulgee River had isolated Dame's Ferry and Pope's Ferry, two communities north of Macon.

Meanwhile, Montezuma and Albany, on the Flint River, were prepared for trouble. The crest was expected this morning at Montezuma, already under four feet of water in some blocks of the business section. Police Chief Roy Joiner said the city was without drinking water because of flood seepage at the city plant. The River Bridge was threatened.

The Flint was still rising at Albany. It jumped 6.12 feet overnight for a total rise of 10 feet in 48 hours, and the city was expecting a 35-foot crest Friday—only 1.6 feet under the all-time high set in 1925. No damage has been reported there, however.

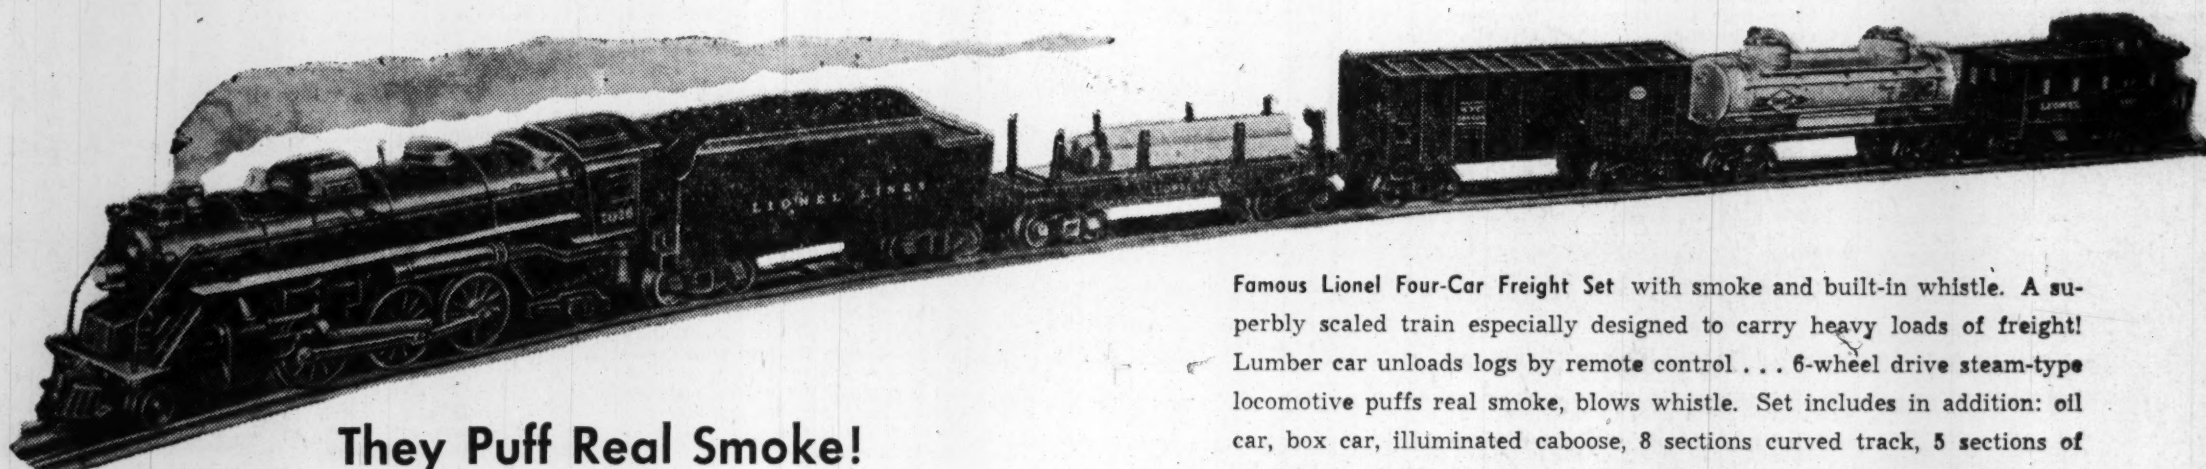

One North Georgia city, Rome, was still flying flood warnings as the Coosa River reached 33 feet.

As far as highways were concerned, Blake Smith, maintenance supervisor of the State Highway Department, said the flood damage in Georgia will not be as great as originally expected because the high waters are dropping so rapidly. Smith said a wooden bridge washed out on U. S. Highway 41 north of Dalton has been repaired and the road re-opened. Total damage to Georgia roads was not estimated, but Director James Gillie has requested $250,000 from Gov. Talmadge to make repairs.

Women Voters--
Mrs. Main Street

By DORIS LOCKERMAN

She was a young Victorian . . . you know, the intellectual, cultured kind of girl with a nostalgia for the graces of the past, and she was brushing aside a little gnarl of discussion on politics.

"I hate politics," she said cynically, rolling the word in her mouth like it tasted sour, "because none of our candidates ever please me. Now, when Washington and Jefferson were leading America, they were students of the classics, versed in history and the arts, and best of all, they could talk! They were masters of the English language. I could have voted for them. Politics was considered an honorable career in those days, the most desirable to be chosen!

"But now . . ." her voice trailed off, because everybody had agreed with her and the conversation ended.

Why was politics once considered honorable? Why did fine men enter it proudly in the beginning of our country, and why, recently, did the University of Denver discovered that seven out of every ten Americans are so down on it, as an activity, that they opposed the idea of a son of theirs making a career of it?

The answer is simple. Millions of Americans think politics is somebody else's business and forget it is a game they win if they play their own hand, or lose if they let some kibitzer play it for them. At any rate, the game goes on, and they're counted in, and they lose their shirt if they don't play it smart.

The less interest in politics, the worse the politics gets; the worse it gets, the more it drives down interest.

Crooked politicians love this vicious little circle. They love spongy, like to keep the shady reputation to scare away the clean-handed, and they indulge in their mumbo-jumbo technicalities to make the average man and woman think they're not alert enough to understand the complicated business of politics in the Atomic Age, even if they try.

Yet politics is a simple business. It is acting together to get something done about a common problem.

It is politics that will bring the leaders of the League of Women Voters of the Southeast together here this week to study the Government budget.

It'll be downright amusing to some people to think of women who, traditionally, can never balance their own checkbooks, trying to figure out Uncle Sam's double-entry bookkeeping. They'll imagine them there, wide-eyed before an avalanche of economics, swimming in a maelstrom of high finance they can't possibly understand, or they'll think of them as super-women with a lofty I. Q., trying to find something to challenge their restless minds.

But they'll be wrong. The League of Women Voters is made up of 83,000 women of Main Street, U. S. A., not restricted by church or social register, averaging somewhere in their thirties, married, and the mothers of small children. They are Republicans, Democrats, nonconformists, but they are joined by a common bond of wholesome curiosity, and interest in America, and have somewhere along the line rejected rubber-stamp thinking.

In an article in the Oct. 15 issue of Vogue, Mary Jean Kemper described League members as "Amateurs with political power, who have learned the anatomy of government and the effect of their knowledge is felt in town halls and legislatures."

"Getting Main Street to the polls is the League's most immediate concern today. It should not be hard to do, but she knows that it is. It involves ringing telephones and doorbells, passing out pamphlets, putting up posters. Reminding, prodding, nagging, sometimes even shaming, which isn't too hard when she can point out that last year more New Yorkers voted for Miss Reingold than cast ballots in the municipal election. She's acquired a talent for making people think and care."

A SHORT STORY

Hair Stylist Gives Tips
On Well-Groomed Coiffeurs

Now it's getting so you can't even call your HAIR your own. Unless, of course, you'd like to claim what's left after a pair of well-sharpened shears have whittled away at your crowning glory.

Most women, according to M. Rene, New York hairstylist, definitely do. They love it.

"Short hair is no passing fancy," said Mr. Rene, who is currently visiting J. P. Allen's Beauty Salon through Dec. 18 for individual consultation. "It is here to stay."

"Short hair is easier to care for," enumerated Mr. Rene, who came to the hairstyling business by way of the dramatic stage, and has styled the locks of such well-known thespians as Betty Grable, Lana Turner and Gracie

Barry, radio songstress, to mention a few. "It can take a lot more buffeting without looking disheveled. And more important than either of these, it is much more youthful."

"However," he pointed out, "not every woman can wear short hair." For these he prescribes special styling, based on a thorough thinning process so that long hair will conform to the contours of the face and head and will not look top-heavy.

"Nor, for that matter," he explained further, "is there any one short hairdo that will conform to every type face."

All hair, regardless of how lovely or even distracting, is intended basically as a frame for the face. Since there are practically no two faces under the sun exactly alike, there can, of course, be no one hairstyle for general use.

"The most relentless problem that hairstylists have to contend with today," said Mr. Rene, "is the woman who saunters into a beauty salon with a magazine clipping in hand and requests that her hair be done 'exactly like this picture.'

The outcome, nine times out of 10, leaves two very disappointed people in its wake. The customer and the stylist.

SALLY FORTH Says:

Billy Turpin and Fiancee Toasted in Mulled Claret

When Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Turpin, of Macon, went to England last Summer to visit their son, Billy (who is almost as well known here as in his native city of Macon), they met a charming girl by the name of Adriana de Heus, whom they decided was the "most satisfactory" young girl they had ever known, next to their own daughter, Edith.

Sunday Billy's engagement to the English belle was announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arie de Heus, of Guildford, Surrey, England, so of course the Turpins are overjoyed. Since both Billy and Adriana are now attending Oxford University, their engagement party was held Saturday evening at Oriol, with Dean C. D. Collins and Mrs. Collins, and a group of their tutors and friends drinking toasts to their happiness in mulled claret.

Billy met his fiancee when both were invited to help entertain a group of German students who were visiting at Oxford. They became very good friends and saw each other often, since they attended the same Episcopal Church and sang in the same choir. He invited her to the Oriol commencement ball which occurred soon after his parents and his sister arrived in England early last Summer.

Later Billy had to go into training for the regatta at Henley, for he is a member of the Oriol crew. While he was away, Adriana showed the Turpins Oxford and they spent a day as guests of her parents in Guildford. Later he was one of a group that Billy joined in Austria for a visit to Innsbruck, Vienna, and Salzburg, after his parents returned to the States.

Billy leaves early in December for Switzerland, where he hopes to get in some skiing. The last two weeks of his vacation he will spend in Holland, where Adriana was born, and where he will visit some of her relatives and friends. They plan to be married at the end of their school year.

There'll Be Three Doctors in the Family

Her father's a doctor, her only brother is a doctor, and she will marry a doctor in February.

She graduated from Washington Seminary and Sophie Newcomb College, and was presented to Atlanta society with the Debutante Club of 1945-46. The attractive belle is a Phi Pi and a Chi Omega. Her hair is brown and her eyes, deep blue.

Her fiance, who is tall and brunet, graduated from the University of Alabama and from Tulane Medical School. A native Mississippian, he is internist at Charity Hospital in New Orleans.

The popular pair met in the Crescent City while they were in college. It's a puzzler, but maybe you can guess.

It Might Have Been a Harrowing Experience

Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Irby, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Jack Glenn, Mr. and Mrs. John Boykin, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Clarke and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hill are safely back from what might have been a most harrowing experience.

The group was invited by Mr. and Mrs. Tom Jerdine, of Athens, to spend the weekend with them at the country shack belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Tillman near Athens. When they arrived in the Classic City, they took their bags and baggage out to the shack, and after the football game returned to find piping hot barbecue and all of the trimmings waiting for them.

The girls slept on cots in the large downstairs room, and the boys retired to the sleeping porch upstairs. In the night, the rains came and the mile of country road leading from the shack to the highway was floated. The Atlantans feared being marooned, but nothing more serious happened than their automobiles getting stuck at every turn of the road, in addition to considerable skidding. It was well worth the anxiety, for they had a superb time with the Jerdines, who are model hosts.

A Seasoned Flier at Three Months

The day she was three months old, small Edith Howland made her first plane trip, and behaved like a seasoned flier, according to her mother, Mrs. William Howland, who accompanied her to Catskill, N. Y. They went North to spend Thanksgiving with Edith's paternal grandmother, Mrs. Clarence Howland, and her great-aunt, Miss Edith Howland, for whom she is named.

Mr. Howland preceded his wife and daughter to New York to get in a bit of hunting. Several days in advance of his departure, his favorite bird dog, Fanny, made the trip by air freight, so the "duo" formed a welcoming committee for Mrs. Howland and Edith upon their arrival.

On the return trip, Mrs. Howland, the baby, and the latter's aunt, Louise Howland, spent the weekend at the Waldorf in New York City, the Atlantans arriving here safe and sound Monday morning.

Life's Tangled Web

By ANGELA BROWN

Dear Mrs. Brown: I left my first husband a year ago after three years of marriage. I came here to live with my sister and met a man and married him. I did not love him but he thought I did. I only married him because I did not want to live with relatives and I was too lazy to get out and get a job. We have been married only a few months and I am sick and tired of him, our dingy apartment and second-hand furniture already.

If we could get away from here to another town maybe I could meet another man I could care for, but a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush and I am not going to give up one man before I get another one. Shall I stay here and rot with this man I do not love or strike out for myself until I find another man, or admit to him I only married him to get a home?

FRANCES.

ANSWER—Leave your husband at once, for you will leave him sooner or later anyway, or rather as soon as another man with more money comes along. A person with your attitude will never make a success of marriage anyway, and you are in a manner committing a crime, living with this man under the pretense of love. He will do far better without you and will be lucky to get rid of you. You get out of marriage just what you put into it, so that is the reason you are so miserable. Either make up your mind to leave him at once, or stay with him; and, if it is the latter, remember that marriage is a sacrament, not a graft.

NO HEALTH MENACE—Dr. James F. Hackney, director of the City Health Department, yesterday said he sees no health menace in the flooding of a number of basements of residences in Atlanta in the past few days. He suggested, however, that where basements were flooded, the water be pumped out and the basement be scrubbed thoroughly. If there is any question about germs, the premises should be disinfected. He said no raw sewage was washed into any basements inside the City limits.

SALARY STUDY—The City Personnel Board yesterday instructed Personnel Director Carl T. Sutherland to prepare a resolution for study at a special meeting at 11 a. m. The Personnel Board proposes to group all salaries and bonuses into a single lump sum.

GEORGIANS JOSHED

Cordele Girl, DeKalb Boy 4-H Winners

By KATHERINE BARNWELL

Constitution Staff Writer
CHICAGO—Hazel Brock, blonde, blue-eyed, crusading 4-H'er from a farm near Cordele, is the fifth Georgia delegate to win national honors at this year's 4-H Club Congress here. And she breathlessly reported:

"I've been running to so many meetings, receptions, press conferences and radio interviews that I'll be kinda glad to get back to the country."

Hazel hastened to add that the Congress attended by nearly 1,500 4-H'ers and their leaders—is just as "wonderful" as it is "strenuous."

A seven-year 4-H member, Hazel was named a national winner for her enterprising campaign in showing farm folk better methods of using electricity.

Hazel made a survey of her County and learned that "most people couldn't understand why their fuses blew out."

In most cases, she found, the cause was overloading the circuit.

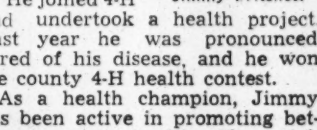

Determined to "do something" about it, she prepared a 4-H demonstration entitled "Overloading Circuit," which she has given before 12 Home Demonstration Clubs, three 4-H Clubs, three school groups and three civic groups.

Earlier yesterday 16-year-old Jimmy Pritchett, of DeKalb County, was named a blue ribbon winner in the national 4-H health project.

The energetic, wise-cracking young health winner is a former victim of undulant fever. His illness in 1944 prompted his decision to raise a cow that would be "free from disease-carrying germs."

He joined 4-H and undertook a health project. Last year he was pronounced cured of his disease, and he won the county 4-H health contest.

As a health champion, Jimmy has been active in promoting better community health. His activi-

OFFICER HURT—Motorcycle Patrolman T. L. Arnold was treated at Grady Hospital for a badly bruised foot and other injuries after the motorcycle he was riding was struck by a car at Capitol Avenue and Peachtree Street.

Georgia's 29 4-H'ers at the National Congress joined those from across the country at a dancing party Monday night sponsored by the Spool Cotton Company.

They will be entertained at breakfast today by Sears, Roebuck & Company; at luncheon by General Motors and at a barbecue dinner by the Curtis Candy Company.

"I've never seen so much food," remarked Carolyn Corry, of Greensboro. "We have a banquet at every meal."

All the Georgia delegates have been ribbed by other 4-H'ers about their Southern accents. Ellen Bleiler, of Tifton; Katy Adkins, of Abac, and Barbara Herring, of Whigham, declared: "Everybody up here calls us 'Honeychile.'"

Opening lead: 10 of Spades. That the female of the species is quite as deadly below the Equator was an observation that I was able to make at first hand on our recent visit to Buenos Aires as guests of the Argentine Bridge League. Prior to the Championship contests it was my good fortune to have as my partner in an informal club duplicate, Etelvina Vargara, a member of the Team-of-Four that had qualified to represent Argentina in the title events.

The tournament got under way, as is not at all uncommon down under, at about 11 p. m., and the sumptuous manner in which we had dined reflected itself in the attitude that I assumed towards the cards that fell my way. It is not here my purpose to defend the leap to 6 Hearts, but rather to laud the manner in which the Senora brought in the contract which I had unsoundly thrust upon her.

Needless to point out, she was aided and abetted by West's indiscreet double but this does not detract from the praiseworthiness of her play. The 10 of Spades was opened and it seemed apparent to declarer that if West did not hold both outstanding Hearts he must have doubled on the expectation of winning a Diamond trick and a campaign must be outlined which would avoid the Diamond finesse. This could be accomplished only by a throw-in play which South proceeded to plot at once.

The Ace and King of Spades were cashed, South discarding the 8 of Clubs; a Spade was ruffed in dummy, the Jack of Spades was then led and ruffed by the declarer. All was serene as Spades broke in a friendly manner and the black suits were completely stripped. The stage was now set for the big moment as Senora Vargara exited with a trump saddling West with the lead. (And great was the fall thereon.)

West was faced with Hobson's choice. He could lead a Club which would permit declarer to discard the losing Diamond out of dummy as she ruffed in her own hand. Or he could lead a Diamond into declarer's tenace. He quite properly selected the latter in the forlorn hope that East held the Queen of Diamonds.

It will be observed that West could have defeated the contract by the opening lead of the Ace of trumps, for he could then have exited gracefully with a Spade or a Club. And analysis will show that it is the proper defence. That East can produce a trick is too remote a contingency to be considered. That the setting trick will be the King of Diamonds is a reasonable assumption and in order to realize its trick-taking power, West must play the waiting game. A forced lead late in the play might prove embarrassing. If West cashed the Ace of Hearts and "got out" he could sit back and wait patiently for his King of Diamonds.

Those Commodores Have Convinced Us

Pass another wing of that crow, please, Dr. Gallup.

A couple of weeks ago, I had as many doubts about the caliber of the Vanderbilt football team as anybody, created mainly by the first game of the season in which the Commodores played for 57 minutes against Georgia Tech without making a first down.

But at long last, I am convinced. And after what Red Sanders did to Maryland and Tennessee, I am now the most rabid of Vandy fans, with the possible exception of Granny Rice, that veteran observer who first put the finger on the Nashville entry.

After Granny had written that Vandy perhaps was the best team in the South, I yapped a bit and said there were folks who would hock their cotton crops to give the Commodores seven points against either Georgia or Georgia Tech.

I'm still not admitting Vanderbilt is the best in our neighborhood, but the points are off once and for all. In fact, a Georgia-Vanderbilt game would be the best attraction I could think of for one of the bowl games, but, of course, that, like the points, is out.

Rice Tells Why The mail yesterday included a short note from Rice, explaining how he happened to select the Commodores as the best and including some other interesting information.

"Frank Thomas wrote me this was the best Vanderbilt team in the last 25 years. Maybe the last 40 years. Which is a long time," Rice wrote. "Vanderbilt is the only team I saw that had the speed of Notre Dame."

"There are about 20 teams just about even," he continued. "Notre Dame and Michigan stand out. After that I'd say at the finish that North Carolina, Oklahoma, Georgia, Vanderbilt, California, Northwestern, Minnesota, etc., were about even in late November."

"I thought Army was to be much better. But injuries to Stuart and Stephenson and Foldberg cut them down. Hawkins also made a big difference for Navy."

A Tossup Now Since seeing the light about Vanderbilt, I would rate it a tossup between Wally Butts and Red Sanders as to the SEC coach who has done the best job of the year.

Both saw their teams off to slow starts, Vandy losing two and tying one of its first three games and Georgia barely edging Chattanooga and losing to North Carolina in its first two games.

Neither team showed much promise. Against Tech, Vandy looked as if it could have played for a week without scoring. Yet what happened but the Commodores came back to win their last seven games, the closest score being three touchdowns.

Likewise for the Bulldogs. Only a fighting spirit stemmed the tide against North Carolina and enabled Georgia to make it close. The Bulldog running attack was little more than futile.

Yet Butts and his boys went to work after that defeat and on last Saturday, rolled 259 yards on the ground against a Tech team which had limited previous opponents to 57.9 yards per game in the same department.

Sanders' Reasons Sanders attributes his team's success to the fact it opened the season against three toughies, Tech, Alabama and Ole Miss.

His contention is that his boys, many of them inexperienced sophomores, learned a lot of football in these games. And he may have something there.

At least, it's a talking point for breathless schedules. But in finishing up this crow, I'll have to offer one slight alibi: I've said all season that Vandy's John Clark is the best center in the Southeastern Conference, maybe the best in the nation. Nothing has happened to change this opinion.

Yes, Vandy!

NEVER A GREAT STAR

Rice Hails Coach Alex as Mentally And Emotionally Tops in Grid Game

By GRANTLAND RICE

North American Newspaper Alliance.

NEW YORK—Practically every one of the great football than-average football player—Camp, Houghton, Rockne, Little, Crisler, Bierman, Neyland, Thomas, Hickman, Voigts, Yost, Heisman, on and on indefinitely.

I can recall but one exception. His name is Bill Alexander, of Georgia Tech, one of the top coaches of all time.

Alexander is heading North from the red clay hills of Georgia to accept the accolade of the Touchdown Club of New York on Thursday. Today he is Georgia Tech's Athletic Director, having turned over the coaching reins at Tech to Bobby Dodd after directing the destinies of the Yellow Jackets for 25 years.

But the important point is this—Alexander was never a college star. He was on the scrub team at Georgia Tech in 1907, 1908 and 1909 before he became John Heisman's assistant in 1912.

Bill Alexander, physically, was never quite equipped to be a college star. But mentally, psychologically and emotionally he was far beyond most of the greatest players the game has ever known.

Alexander knew well the physical side of football but, better than most, he knew the value of deception, of using speed to match weight and power.

When Heisman left Georgia Tech in 1920 to go to Pennsylvania, Alexander took over and set up a brilliant record for 25 years—until he turned over the job to Bobby Dodd in 1945.

In that time Old Man Alex had won seven conference championships—he was named the Coach of the Year in 1942—and he had baffled and bewildered more rival coaches than any I know, with lighter, faster, smarter working material.

It was lack of weight and power alone that bowled Tech over this year. Bill Alexander is football's leading philosopher. He has known the game from the front line for over 40 years. He has a marvelous sense of humor—an amazing understanding of values.

Here's an Alexander story that goes back exactly 20 years to 1928—and explains Alex: Georgia Tech was playing its final game of the season against Notre Dame. This game meant staying home or going to the Rose Bowl.

"How are things?" I asked. "How would I know?" Alexander said. "I haven't seen the team in three days. I've had 122 tickets to collect and deliver to old grads. Say, who're we playing?"

Northwestern, SMU Rated as Favorites CHICAGO—(AP)—Johnny McDonald, Chicago betting commissioner, rates Northwestern and Southern Methodist favorites in the Rose Bowl and Cotton Bowl respectively.

McDonald lists Northwestern a seven-point favorite over California, or 7½ if you take California. Southern Methodist is called a six-point favorite over Oregon.

The Sugar Bowl battle between North Carolina and Oklahoma is given 5 and 6 odds by McDonald, and take your pick.

Pennsylvania's Bednarik Is Drafted by Eagles PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—Charles (Chuck) Bednarik, the University of Pennsylvania's All-America center, has been drafted by the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League.

Eagle General Manager Charley Ewart said Monday the NFL's Eastern Division champions won the right to the 233-pound pivotman in the league's recent All-Star special draft drawing.

FIRST DOWN FOR MARIETTA—Richard Anderson (75), Marietta High halfback, evades Ross Shoemaker (33), Cartersville High end, and picks up 15 yards and a Blue Devil first down in last night's Region 3A play-off game at Henry Grady Stadium. Bobby Dodd, Hurricane quarterback not in the photo eventually made the tackle. Leading Anderson's way are Pat Edwards (85), quarterback, and Don Heywood (76), right half. The Devils reversed a 13-6 loss of last Thursday and won, 19-13, earning the right to meet Decatur in the North Georgia Class A finals Saturday afternoon at 2:30 at Grady Stadium. Winner of this game tangles with the South Georgia champs for the State championship. Thomasville and Fitzgerald play for the right to represent the lower half of the State Friday night in Albany.

Marietta Wins Region 3A Title

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

All the might of Cartersville's slashing Purple Hurricane was not enough to prevail over Marietta's bristling determination last night at Grady Stadium as Jim Pressley's Blue Devils fought back doggedly from the brink of defeat to annex the Georgia State, Class A, region three football championship with a hard-earned 19-13 triumph.

The Devils, who now will meet Decatur's Region four titlist for the North Georgia title at 2:30 p. m. Saturday at Grady Stadium here, were one touchdown underdogs to Vic Varney's Hurricane after losing to this same Cartersville team, 13-6 on Thanksgiving Day, but from the outset the heavily outweighed Mariettians carried the fight to their larger opponents and finally cashed in on the breaks to win the first grid title in the history of the school.

It was as much the smashing end play of Robert West and Charlie Edge as it was the superb ball kicking of Don Haywood, Richard Anderson and Sam Hensley and the fine clutch passing of Pat Edwards that brought ultimate victory. The Marietta lads never were behind as it was, but the crushing ground power of Cartersville, generated by the slashing runs of Jimmy Colvin, Gene Ramsey, Joe Powers and Pat Whitworth, seemed so unstoppable at times that the overcoated crowd thought surely throughout the fray that the Varney-coached boys would eventually come through again. It was not to be, however.

The fightingest team we have seen all year took the opening kickoff and produced a touchdown drive of 57 yards in just three plays. After Anderson hauled the opening boot back 22 yards to the Marietta 43, Edwards promptly whipped a bullet pass to Edge, who played at Cedarstown High last year, for 25 yards. Haywood zipped through tackle for seven yards and then ripped over guard reversed his field and galloped 25 yards for the tally. Ernest Roberts booted the extra point for a 7-0 lead.

The advantage was short-lived as Cartersville took the ensuing kickoff and smashed 61 yards to knot the count at 7-7. Colvin and Whitworth carried the load with short powerful bursts through the line, and were aided by two forward-laterals of nine yards each that went Lamar Leachman to Ray Brown to Powers. Colvin, running powerfully, hatched off tackle for the last 17 yards, and Whitworth bucked over the tying point.

It was early in the second period that Marietta surged out front again at 13-7 on a 73-yard drive. A 14-yard Edwards to West aerial got the Devils going. Hensley, West, Anderson and Haywood smacked overland to the Hurricane 33 from where Edwards again hit West with a blue dart that ate up the rest of the yardage. Robertson missed on the extra point try and that was all the scoring before intermission.

Cartersville gambled repeatedly throughout the fray, almost always trying to make a first down on fourth down rather than punt even when deep in their own territory. The first time they tried it they made a first down early in the third period on their own 29, but two plays later it cost them dearly. Leachman tried to lateral to Colvin. The hard-charging Edge batted it back toward the Hurricane goal, and Tackle Tommy Oglesby, in the middle of the mad scramble for the ball, fell on it in the end zone for a Marietta touchdown and a 19-7 advantage.

After that Cartersville smashed goalward time and again, but always they bogged down until a break came early in the fourth period. A Hurricane linesman

Devil Coach Hails Team's Comeback

By JESSE OUTLAR

Coach Jim (Red) Pressley was beaming last night after his Marietta Blue Devils tripped Cartersville, 19-13, to annex the Class A Region Three crown and earn the right to play Decatur for the North Georgia championship at Grady Field Saturday afternoon at 2:30.

Pressley was reluctant to single out any of the Blue Devils for individual praise. He thought that his entire team played a "whole of a game" against a heavier foe.

However, he was particularly impressed with the play of End Robert West and Quarterback Pat Edwards. But "Red" summed it up by adding, "Just say something good about all the boys. They made a great comeback to beat the same team which won a 13-6 victory last Thursday in Cartersville."

Pressley's boys took a terrific physical battering from the hefty Cartersville forwards. But Halfback Don Haywood's broken nose appeared to be the major casualty.

When the Blue Devils bump heads with Decatur, it will be their third game within ten days. The winner of Saturday's scrap will play the South Georgia champ Dec. 10 at a site to be decided. Thomasville and Fitzgerald collide in Albany this Friday for the right to meet the North Georgia titlist.

Cartersville Coach Vic Varney was downcast after his boys were eliminated from the playoff scene. He thought that a fourth quarter lateral fumble which resulted in a Marietta touchdown was the turning point of the fray.

Varney called Robert West, who played a driving game at end, the outstanding Marietta performer. He also lauded Charles Edge, the other Blue Devil flankman and Quarterback Pat Edwards.

Center Lawrence Collier, Tackle Don Johnson, Halfback Jimmy Colvin and Quarterback Lamar Leachman drew high praise from their coach.

pounced on a Marietta fumble at the Devils' 16, and Colvin and Whitworth smashed to pay dirt with the aid of a five yard penalty. Whitworth got the final two yards on fourth down and the Devils had only a 19-13 lead.

Twice more in the game Cartersville gained possession, but each time Marietta threw back every thrust. With one minute and 15 seconds left, Powers got back to the Hurricane 21 on a punt return. Two long aerials failed, but then Bobby Dodd heaved a 30-yard gainer to Colvin at the Marietta 49 and the Cartersville stands went wild. Colvin tried to pass on the next play but was rushed hard, fumbled and Tackle Ernest Robertson coiled around it for Marietta on the Cartersville 20. The winners ran one play and the ball game was over.

Center Lawrence Collier and Tackle Donald Johnson stood out like beacons in the Cartersville up-front corps, and it was the great end play of Edge, who gave out with the greatest performance of his career, and West, who carried the defensive brunt for the Pressleys. It was a game to be long remembered by Marietta partisans, winning against the odds as they did. It was a richly deserved triumph.

Leahy Denies He'll Quit Coaching

CHICAGO—(INS)—Frank Leahy last night denied a report that he was contemplating resigning his job as Notre Dame football coach "in a couple of years."

"I hope to coach football at Notre Dame as long as they'll have me," he said. The rumor originated in Cleveland. His contract still has seven years to run.

Quits After 10 Years.

McKeen Quits at Miss. State

STATE COLLEGE, Miss.—(P)—Allyn McKeen, head football coach at Mississippi State College for 10 years, resigned yesterday effective Jan. 1.

The mentor, whose Maroons took a 34-to-7 beating from the University of Mississippi Saturday, said he quit "for the best interests of the college and the team." He declined further comment.

McKeen's five-year contract at State had three more seasons to run. College President Fred T. Mitchell said a settlement was made with McKeen on the remainder of the contract.

The long-time State coach said he had no plans for the future, except to serve as one of the coaches in the annual Blue-Gray game on Christmas Day at Montgomery.

Included among the top stars in the game will be two of State's backfield dazlers, Tom (Shorty) McWilliams and Harper Davis.

A joint announcement by President Mitchell and C. R. Noble, Athletic Director, said McKeen's resignation has been accepted. Noble said "everything was entirely amicable between McKeen and the college. He has served State well during his 10 years here."

McKeen's State teams won 65 games, lost 19 and had three ties from 1939 through this season and captured the Southeastern Conference championship in 1941.

However, the Maroons turned in a disappointing record this season, losing four, winning four and tying one.

Geri Due To Lead In Scoring

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Unless Auburn, Alabama or Vanderbilt take a hint from the recent weather and turn loose a flood of touchdowns, Joe Geri, of Georgia, is the 1948 scoring champion of the Southeastern Conference.

Geri's 90 points this season—nine touchdowns afoot and 36 points by placement—leads the Southeastern easily with two games yet to be played by Conference members.

The Vanderbilt Commodores play the Miami Hurricanes in Miami Friday night but it isn't likely that Vandy's leading scorer, Dean Davidson, can catch Geri. Davidson has scored seven touchdowns but kicked no points.

Alabama's top scorer is Ed Salem, like Geri, a kicker and runner. His total thus far is 47. Geri's lead probably will remain safe when Alabama and Auburn meet in Birmingham Saturday.

Lea, McCoy Pace Soph All-Star Picks

The 220-pound, six-foot two-inch bulk of Tulane's Paul Lea is considered by coaches and sports writers to be the top piece of sophomore football property in the Southeastern Conference.

The giant tackle from New London, Texas, was elected top sophomore of the year on the Associated Press' All-Southeastern first year varsity team.

Lea received 66 votes out of a possible 80 and was listed first string tackle on 17 out of 20 ballots from coaches and AP sports writers who covered games in which he played.

Georgia Tech's stocky, broken field master, Bob McCoy, ranks second among sophomores. McCoy, from Chattanooga, Tenn., is a compact five-foot, 10-inch, 170-pounder who, in addition to being shifty in the secondary, is a good line driver.

THE PREPARADE

4 Tough Elevens
Scrap for AA Title

By JESSE OUTLAR

With the exception of Mr. R. L. (Shorty) Doyal just about everyone around here has awarded the Class AA football crown to the Marist Cadets.

But because a football has been known to take some strange bounces—as Mr. Oliver Humnicutt, of LaGrange, will testify, anything can happen in these forthcoming scuffles for the State's top title. All four of the Region champions have fine football teams. Glynn Academy, which annexed the Region 2 diadem by smashing Richmond this week, has the only unblemished record. Of course, the Terrors lost a game to Savannah, but it was converted into a victory when Billy Royal was declared ineligible. Lanier and Marist are unbeaten, however, they battled to a 7-7 stalemate and Lanier was also tied by Savannah. But, like Glynn, the Poets put that one on the winning side of the ledger later.

Brown was defeated by both Marist and Lanier and played tie games with Jesuit, of New Orleans, and Central, of Charlotte.

Of the four contests, only Brown has yielded more than two touchdowns to any foe.

Cadets Are Tough

Marist, in our opinion, is the strongest prep team in this State since they dismissed the pupils at Boys' High and Tech High.

They say figures don't lie, but this isn't always true in football. At any rate, Marist, in nine games, has amassed 259 points, while limiting the opposition to 28. That's an average of almost 29 points per game. So, you see, Marist has a game total of one point more than their foes have scored all year.

However, Marist must hurdle the most improved eleven in town to remain in the title scene. The Cadets tackle Brown Friday night at Grady Stadium.

Early in the campaign, the Cadets clipped the Rebs by two touchdowns. They are favored to repeat the feat again this time, but by only a six-point margin. And one of the largest crowds of the season is expected to be on hand to see what happens.

Lanier and Glynn collide in Macon Saturday to determine an opponent for the winner of the Atlanta game.

Not much has been said about Glynn this season, but Coach C. M. Page has moulded a powerful team capable of taking care of itself against the best of 'em. The Terrors have a great forward wall, anchored by Center Nick Mavromat. Lanier is supposed to win and probably will. But an upset here wouldn't be so stunning.

A rematch of Lanier-Marist, if they could play at Grant Field, would attract the largest crowd of the season, excluding, of course, the All-Star game.

But both of these teams have tough foes to dispose of before thinking about a return bout. That pigskin isn't shaped to roll straight.

Walker Voted Heisman Award

NEW YORK—(AP)—Doak Walker, Southern Methodist's All-American back, has been awarded the John W. Heisman Trophy as the nation's outstanding college football player, the Downtown Athletic Club announced yesterday.

Walker was chosen by a nationwide ballot of coaches, players and sports writers. Johnny Lujack, Notre Dame quarterback, received the award last year, and Felix Blanchard, Army fullback, in 1946.

Paper Says Heath
Gets $40,000 Offer

MILWAUKEE—(AP)—The Milwaukee Journal said yesterday that Stan Heath, University of Nevada forward passer, has been offered $40,000 for two seasons of football with the New York Yankees of the All-America Conference.

Hamilton
Picked for Pitt Post

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—Pitt yesterday picked Navy Capt. Tom Hamilton to direct its athletics provided Uncle Sam will release him for the job—and Hamilton wants it.

The choice was made by the University's Board of Trustees with a deep bow to the wishes of the Navy Department and the fervent hope the Navy will accede. As an active officer, Hamilton is prohibited from negotiating with civilian authorities.

Capt. Hamilton will "be offered the post as soon as it is possible for him to properly receive the invitation," a statement by Pitt Chancellor R. H. Fitzgerald said.

The Chancellor added: "I have every reason to believe Hamilton will be allowed to accept this civilian job. But Hamilton could refuse and I say that with all sincerity. It's not in the bag."

Selection of Capt. Hamilton, now athletic director at the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, was something everybody expected.

At Annapolis, Hamilton said he would confer with Navy officials this week about the Pittsburgh offer. The Navy Department in Washington said it had not received any application for retirement from the Captain.

"I am very flattered at the generous offer of the University of Pittsburgh and, expect to confer with authorities at the University of Pittsburgh as well as Navy officials later in the week," Hamilton said. "Until these conferences take place I am not in a position to make any further comment."

Before Hamilton finally was chosen, Pitt was understood to have considered Lloyd Jordan of Amherst, Wesley Fesler of Ohio State and John (Spike) Harding of Miami (Fla.) U. Fesler turned down the job.

Harbor Bowl
Gets Villanova

VILLANOVA, Pa.—(AP)—Villanova's football team yesterday accepted an invitation to meet Nevada in the Harbor Bowl at San Diego, Cal., New Year's Day.

The Villanova squad voted unanimously to accept the bid and the college's Board of Trustees approved the action.

Villanova won seven, lost two to Army and Boston College—and tied Kentucky in its best season under Coach Jordan Oliver. The 1948 Wildcat eleven gained more than 3,000 yards—most in the school's football history and scored 253 points, another Villanova record.

Harper Wins
Savannah Medal

SAVANNAH—(AP)—Emory Harper, Columbia, S. C., fired a three-under-par 69 yesterday to take medalist honors in the second annual General Oglethorpe Amateur Invitation golf tournament for the second year in succession.

Tommy Barnes, veteran Linksman from Atlanta, was second low medalist in the qualifying round with a one-under-par 71.

Harper, out in even par thirty-six, clipped three strokes off the back nine to cop honors.

Gene Dahlbender, Jr., the Southern amateur champion, joined Barnes and Harper in the favorites' role as he turned in a one-over-par 73.

3 Bulldogs, One Jacket
On UP All-SEC TeamBy EDWIN POPE
United Press Sports Editor

Fittingly enough, the champion Bulldogs dominate the United Press 1948 All-Southeastern Conference team with three players on the first eleven.

Quarterback Johnny Rauch, and easily one of the best in the senior, Rauch and Healey, were chosen outstanding back and line player, respectively, in a pre-season United Press poll.

Tulane's Eddie Price, tanklike fullback who led the nation's rushers, was the other unanimous choice.

Although the unlimited substitution rule made it difficult to pick durable as well as talented performers, United Press sports writers who watched every Southeastern team in action came up with hardest-hitting guard in the league

SPORTS IN BRIEF

'Watch Out in '49,' Neyland Warns
Tennessee's Football Opponents

Tennessee's Bob Neyland headed for Florida to do some fishing yesterday, but not until he had warned Vol opponents of next Fall to watch out.

Speaking at his squad's annual banquet, the General said that he and his boys were tired of losing, and come 1949 they expect to "get some measure of revenge on those rascals who have been rubbing our noses in the dirt."

The Vols return 27 lettermen next Fall, and have one of Dixie's top freshmen over. His Plebe team ran up 262 points while limiting opponent's 55 in winning eight straight, and he says that "we hope to improve our situation rather than lighten the load." Many people were against the Navy's suicide schedule, but Sauer says he rather "give a strong team a good game than beat a weak team."

Next Fall, the Middies will face Southern Cal., Princeton, Duke, Wisconsin, Penn. Tulane, Columbia, Notre Dame and Army. Plenty tough, but that's the way he wants it.

Around the Nation—Players are accepting All-Star invitations right and left. Latest are Ole Miss' Barney and Phil Poole and Dixie Howell to the Miami Shrine Temple's Charity clash. They'll play for the South, along with Alabama's ends, Bob Hood and Jim Cain.

To the Blue-Gray tilt in Montgomery go Ray Truncellito, Dartmouth; Leo Skladay, Pitt; Bob Heck, Purdue; Wally Dreyer, Wisconsin; Dan Dworsky, Michigan; Joe McCary and Stuart Barbour, Virginia; Harry Larche, Arkansas State, and Al Sanders, Mississippi Southern. Clemson's Tigers expect to close a perfect season Saturday against The Citadel in Charleston. The Tigers, who meet Missouri in the Gator Bowl New Year's Day, worked out yesterday without Fullback Fred Cone and Tackle Carroll Cox, both injured.

Tennessee averaged 28.50 per game in six tilts this Fall. Largest crowd was the 42,860 for the North Carolina game. . . . Bear Wolf, at Florida, is busy lining up outstanding high school players for his next Fall's freshman squad.

Latest addition, Jackie Wilcox, 205-pound fullback, was also sought by Clemson and Georgia. . . . Nate de Long, the nation's top cage scorer last season, opens a 25-game slate with River Falls State Teachers against Augsburg College tonight at River Falls. He averaged 28.1 per game last season. . . . Reed Green, head coach and athletic director at Mississippi Southern since 1937, is stepping down as grid coach, according to the Hattiesburg (Miss.) American. He will probably be replaced by Pie Vann, his chief assistant.

Utah sympathizers with Tulane in regard to the missing bowl bid, the Utes barely failed to get the Delta Bowl invite, and now someone has suggested that they meet the Wave in the "Snub Bowl."

ODDS AND ENDS—Indications are that the National A. A. U. Track and Field championships will go to the Pacific Coast next Summer. If so it would be the West's first time as host since 1940. . . . The World Series picture reveals nothing to clear up the disputed "pick-off" at second base in the opening game. Cameramen were caught napping and got only shaky and brief views of the play on which Lou Boudreau of the Indians claimed he had nipped the Braves' Phil Masi after King a throw from Bobby Feller. The films did reveal that Boudreau was out at third base in the fourth game attempting to

Second New Year's 'Bowl' Game
Is Latest Bit of Miami Madness

MIAMI, Fla.—(AP)—Possibility of a football "double-header" here on New Year's was reported in the making yesterday.

A local group—irate over the selection of thrice-beaten Texas to oppose Georgia in the Orange Bowl classic—was reported attempting to bring Santa Clara and either Penn. State or Tulane here for a game under the lights, a few hours after the Texas-Georgia contest.

The Miami Daily News said that Col. W. A. Scott, a representative of Santa Clara College, contacted the California school from Miami and Athletic Director Dennis A. Heenan acknowledge he had been approached on the subject by a Miamiian, but no commitment had been made.

A. A. Ungar, in charge of Orange Bowl rental, said he had not been contacted for leasing the Stadium New Year's night, but "if I am contacted, I will be very glad to rent it to them," he said.

Meanwhile, reaction to Texas' selection for the 15th annual classic ranged from bitter to "so what."

The consensus, however, seemed to be that the Orange Bowl Committee had slipped somewhere along the line and in desperation had signed Texas. Others saw the match as potentially full of excitement.

SANTA CLARA, Cal.—(AP)—University of Santa Clara confirmed last night it had been approached about playing a night football game at Miami after the Texas-Georgia Orange Bowl game on New Year's Day.

M. W. (Mike) Wells, publicist for the Broncos, said no action had been taken and that the Santa Clara authorities have adopted an attitude of "watchful waiting" in considering the proposal.

Wells said Santa Clara still was not sure what the situation is, but that it could not be interested in the night game were sponsored by "some group of malcontents trying to organize something in competition with the Orange Bowl."

If the game is under auspices of the original Orange Bowl Committee, the school would be more inclined to be interested, he added.

Frankly admitted they didn't care what teams played—they go to see the half-time pageantry.

But to the dyed-in-the-wool OB fans, there was an aura of disappointment in Texas' selection.

"It is disheartening that with $150,000 to spend for two teams that we have to reach in the bottom of the barrel and take a third-rate eleven as an opponent for Georgia," said Miami Herald Sports Editor Jimmy Burns.

"I'm not too impressed with the selection of Texas," Guy Butler, Daily News Sports Editor, said, "however, it might be a football game with high scoring—and Georgia winning easily."

R. D. Freeman, Orange Bowl chairman, defended the selection. "Money talks to those big colleges," Freeman said. "That's why the Sugar Bowl was able to grab off North Carolina and Oklahoma."

"I believe that in matching Texas and Georgia, we will have a wide-open exciting game with lots of scoring."

After the game, the big Floridian was overjoyed with more than 40 other Bulldogs. Too, he was happy as he threw his sweaty uniform on the floor because his last appearance in Stanford Stadium was what the coaches had been hoping for all season and when the Southeastern Conference champions tangle with the University of Texas in the Orange Bowl on New Year's Day, Jack Bush

ATHENS—There is no better way for a football player to wind up his collegiate career than to play an inspired ball game against an arch rival, especially when he has been somewhat of a disappointment to his coaches down through the Autumn grind.

That's exactly what Jack Bush, 215-pound senior tackle, did for Coach Wally Butts and the Georgia Bulldogs last Saturday afternoon in Sanford Stadium when the Red and Black gridders completed the regular season.

Bush broke into the Georgia lineup in 1946 as a sophomore when he held down a regular berth on the Sugar Bowl eleven. Last season he continued to show possibilities of turning into a top-notch lineman but this Fall he failed to hit his peak.

First of all, when practice opened in September there was a hustlin', first-string-seeking sophomore by the name of Nick Feher hot on his heels. The season opened and the second-year man had the senior running for his money. Consequently, they split a goodly part of the duty.

An injury may have been partly responsible for Bush's inability to regain his old form. The week before the semi-final tilt with Furman he turned up with a badly bruised chest which an X-ray revealed to be an aggravation of an old injury, probably received very early in the season. All the time, though, he had been plugging along.

But last weekend, 52,000 fans saw a guy really get in the ball game for the first time this year. It was his best performance of the season and he was in on a number of good plays just as was the whole lot of Bulldogs that so completely stopped the Yellow Jackets. When Floyd (Breezy) Reid reeled off his 33-yard run to the Tech eight it was Bush out front in the line of interference.

After the game, the big Floridian was overjoyed with more than 40 other Bulldogs. Too, he was happy as he threw his sweaty uniform on the floor because his last appearance in Stanford Stadium was what the coaches had been hoping for all season and when the Southeastern Conference champions tangle with the University of Texas in the Orange Bowl on New Year's Day, Jack Bush can be a big barrier in the Big Red forward wall.

SHORT SIGNALS—Quarterback John Rauch has been invited to play in two post-season all-star games but the Orange Bowl tilt will prevent the Bulldog senior from participating. The games, sponsored by a Los Angeles sports club, are scheduled for Jan. 5 and 12 in Hawaii, the players being mostly Pacific Coast stars but a few invitations were extended to gridders from other sections of the country. . . . Bob Walston, sophomore end, paced the Georgia pass receivers with 25 catches for 525 yards and four touchdowns. Gene Lorende was next in line with 22 grabs that covered 440 yards. . . . Joe Geri led the ground gainers with 583 yards on 118 carries and Eli Maricleh's eight pass interceptions were tops. . . . Billy Mixon, flashy sophomore halfback, had the best rushing average for the Bulldogs. The Tifton speedster rolled up 172 yards on 24 tries for an average of 7.1 yards per carry.

Mrs. H. L. Schlesinger, Civic Leader, Dies Here

Mrs. Harry L. Schlesinger, who was active in civic and social work since she came to Atlanta in 1881, died in her home at 781 W. Peachtree St. yesterday morning. She was 89.

With the kind of irresistible persuasion that results from perception, presence and charm, the tiny Mrs. Schlesinger was one of the city's most influential leaders in its burgeoning years.

She organized the Sewing Circle in the First World War, and kept it vitally active and worked ardently with the Red Cross in all of its services.

She was one of the oldest members of the Temple, and with Mrs. Dan Rich, her lifetime friend who died last week, she had maintained a close tie with the Temple Sisterhood.

Since the turn of the century, the Schlesingers had lived on West Peachtree Street. As the city grew, their home, once considered a suburban residence, moved nearer to the bustling enterprise of downtown Atlanta.

Together, Mr. and Mrs. Schlesinger engaged in many quiet personal philanthropies known only to the people who received their benefactions.

After Mrs. Schlesinger's death about 25 years ago, his widow opened their home to business men and women, sharing it with her affection with all of them.

Always a meticulously groomed woman of quaint handiwork, the friends of Mrs. Schlesinger remember vividly her great sense of humor and her unflagging interest in the happenings of her neighborhood and the world.

"Laughter with Mrs. Schlesinger is one of my most cherished memories," a friend said yesterday. "She never left her side without a lifted spirit."

She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Frank Neely, Mrs. Harry S. Moore, both of Atlanta, and Mrs. Harrison Johnson, of Birmingham; two sons, Joe A. Schlesinger, of Atlanta; and Alex. L. Schlesinger, of Springfield, Mass.; five grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. today at Spring Hill, with Rabbi Jacob M. Rothschild officiating. Burial services will be held Friday at 10 o'clock at West View Cemetery in West View Cemetery.

Floyd Baird, 42, formerly of Atlanta and Augusta, died in Washington, D. C., Monday after a brief illness.

An electrical engineer, he had been working in Washington since his discharge from the service. He leaves his wife; his mother, Mrs. C. B. Baird, of Augusta; three sisters, Mrs. J. M. Banish, of Greensboro, N. C.; Mrs. Lou Webber, of Cincinnati, Ohio; and Mrs. Bruce Rodgers, of Augusta, and a brother, Alvin Baird, of Charleston, S. C.

Divorce-Racket Ring Is Smashed in N. Y.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan announced yesterday the smashing of a New York divorce-racket ring with the arrest of two men and a young housewife on charges of perjury in connection with divorce actions.

Hogan said one of the men, Max Zukerman, 53, a private detective, admitted "flagrant perjury in hundreds of divorce cases in the past four years."

He also said his office had obtained "evidence and statements implicating at least 10 attorneys and maybe more."

Others arrested are Mrs. Sara Ellis, 20-year-old mother of three children, and Samuel Schneiderman, 57, a pier watchman.

Hogan said Mrs. Ellis admitted she worked with Zukerman in 35 divorce cases in the past 18 months, sometimes as the "unknown woman" in raids preceding divorce action and also as a witness giving false testimony to raids which never occurred.

Adultery is the only grounds for divorce in New York State and "evidence" is usually presented before a divorce is granted.

Hogan said Schneiderman admitted perjury in one case involving a divorce proceeding.

Hogan said Mrs. Ellis, wife of a building superintendent, admitted taking the witness stand in 15 court proceedings in which she committed perjury.

Zukerman had two types of service to offer persons seeking divorces, Hogan said.

In the first, he said, a raid would be staged on a hotel room after
